U.S. Admits War Action Spills into Laos, Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war in Viet Nam has been spilling over into Laos and Cambodia and the United States is encountering more difficulty in obscuring the fact.

Two unusual official disclosures in the last three days have thrown fresh light on the involvement in combat actions of territories in both Laos and Cambodia.

In Washington, the Defense Department reported for the first time on casualties in air operations over Laos. The reports showed that in the past two years 11 U.S. flyers have been killed there and somewhat fewer than 20 others have been listed as missing or captured by Communist forces.

And in Saigon, a U.S. spokesman confirmed accounts from news correspondents on the scene that last Saturday American artillery fired across a boundary river into Cambodian jungles to silence enemy guns when U.S. troops ran into heavy fire from Viet Cong forces on

Traffic Death Toll Record Established

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council has reported another record statistic in the nation's traffic death toll.

The council reported Wednesday that 10,710 persons died in traffic accidents during the first three months of this year. This was a 7 per cent increase over a similar period last year.

Traffic deaths in March totaled 3,730 or 12 per cent more than in March 1965, the council said.

Uniting Churches Adopt Charter of Principles

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Religion Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Representatives of eight major denominations overwhelmingly adopted today a set of principles as a basis for uniting into one church.

The action climaxed five years of work and displayed a dramatic consensus on issues which in the past have kept Protestants apart.

It also, for the first time, set concrete guideposts for the merger undertaking.

Voting in series on each portion of the 105-page document, the meeting approved opening chapters Wednesday night and swept through additional material this morning, with several items still to be acted on.

But the seeping sentiment for passage already was clearly demonstrated, as section after section went through without dissent.

Pledging their commitment to a unified church, the mixed company of Christians set forth the basic tenets for it, and declared:

"What we shall find in this venture, we believe, is nothing less than the lost greatness in the church's life."

It was the first time in five years of work that the Consultation on Church Union (COCU) had agreed on a concrete set of guidelines.

Eight denominations, with more than 24 million members and a wide range of traditions, customs and systems, are involved.

Avowing that "the people of God exist as one people" and that "they have been made so in Christ," the assembly said:

"We resolve to attempt, under God, a more inclusive expression of the oneness of the church of Christ than any of the participating churches can suppose itself to be."

Wallace Firm In His Stand On Segregation

Governor Shrugs At Loss of Bloc Of Negro Votes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace has refused to budge from his segregationist stand, even though it may cause Negroes to vote for his wife's Republican opponent in November.

"We are not going to change our attitude for anybody," he told newsmen Wednesday. "We're not making any deals for any group of voters."

With the Democratic primary behind them, and Mrs. Wallace assured of the nomination to succeed her husband, Wallace was looking to the general election which he said, in effect, could be won without the Negro vote.

In Washington, the probable GOP nominee for governor, congressman James D. Martin, said Mrs. Wallace's thumping victory wouldn't deter him from seeking nomination from the state convention July 29.

He said he hoped Negroes "won't vote as a bloc, in the

Auglaize Watershed Aid Sought

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Directors of the Maumee Watershed Conservancy District have recommended approval of new plans by Soil Conservation Service, in order to get federal funds on all improvement in the Little Auglaize Watershed.

Documents making the recommendation have been filed with the clerks of courts in Paulding, Putnam, Van Wert and Mercer counties. County commissioners and soil and water conservation district supervisor cooperated with the conservation service in developing the watershed program.

Four proposed new sections of the district's official plan cover Dog, Hagerman, Upper Prairie creeks, and headquarters of the Little Auglaize River. If approved by the court, these streams will be added to those already in the official plan—Little Auglaize, Town, Meadow, Middle and Hoaglin-Prairie, thus bringing total channel improvement to 186.9 miles.

Land owners can file objections in writing with the conservancy district secretary in Defiance not later than June 1. Hearings are set for Van Wert, June 13; Celina, June 15; Paulding, June 16, and Ottawa, June 17, in their respective court houses at 10 a. m.

To protesting motorists, police said a man has every right to drive sheep on the public highway. Bill's wife, Mary, commented:

Boys Look Like Girls? Blame Girls!!

NEW YORK (AP) — The Beatles all will get crew-cuts within the next five years and their squealing teen-age admirers will swap Army jackets and jeans for dresses, a leading psychiatrist predicted today.

"It's all a passing fad," said Dr. Wladimir G. Eliasberg of New York, former president of the American Society of Psychoanalytic Physicians.

"I see no deep-rooted behavior disorders in the present tendency of girls to look like boys and boys to look like girls. It's not psychiatric. It's not biological. It's not neurotic."

"It can be traced directly to social factors. It is rebellion — rebellion of the youngsters against their parents and against society."

Some boys are going in for shoulder-length hair, lip pomades, false eyelashes and sweet-smelling perfumes. Girls are affecting the Sassoon male hair-cuts, workmen's boots, heavy belts and apparel bought from the Army-Navy store.

"Girls, teen-agers especially, abhor cave-man types," he said. "They no longer want to be dominated. They want boy companions who are subordinate to them in strength, who are sensitive and who talk a lot. They don't want masters. They want equals, or less."

"This naturally appeals to some boys. This is their weapon against the popularity of the muscle-bound athletes. They let their hair grow, they adopt feminine attributes and the girls swoon."

At home, he said, federal spending "has gotten completely out of hand." He blamed President Johnson but he also accused some Republicans of advocating economy while opposing efforts to cut spending.

"These are the new-wave Republicans, the spend-nik Republicans who are exploiting the GOP for political position, but who betray virtually every plank of our party's platforms."

The new French action is another step in President Charles de Gaulle's program to remove France from NATO's military activities.

The sources said there was no indication that the French planned to ban NATO flights and landings. But if they did France with neutral Switzerland and Austria — over which military flights are not permitted—would form an East-West barrier from the Atlantic to the Iron Curtain.

This would sever direct air connection of NATO forces in Italy, Greece and Turkey from those in West Germany, Denmark, Norway, Britain and the Low Countries.

Allied officials say the question of overflights is a key point in negotiations over France's withdrawal from the NATO integrated military command and its demand that all NATO forces get out of France by next April 1.

Warsaw (AP)—The U. S. ambassador to Poland flew to Washington today to urge an increase in trade between the United States and the Communist countries of Eastern Europe.

Ambassador John A. Gronowski planned to spend nearly three weeks in the United States. He will report to President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on his five months as envoy to Poland and his recent swing through neighboring Soviet bloc countries.

Gronowski said more trade with Soviet bloc countries would help ease the U. S. balance of payments deficit and also would reduce international tensions.

The Holts spent most of their private assets supporting the babylift operation and the orphanage which today has 36 buildings and houses 557 children.

Holt once was called a "slave trader" by the North Korean government and fought a continuing battle with social workers, U.S. immigration laws and adoption procedures.

Yet, awards include the Medal of Culture — the highest honor of the Republic of Korea — bestowed upon a foreigner — awarded posthumously to Holt in 1964, the Public Welfare Service Medal from the Korean government and an accompanying citation from the late Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Auglaize Watershed Aid Sought

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Directors of the Maumee Watershed Conservancy District have recommended approval of new plans by Soil Conservation Service, in order to get federal funds on all improvement in the Little Auglaize Watershed.

Documents making the recommendation have been filed with the clerks of courts in Paulding, Putnam, Van Wert and Mercer counties. County commissioners and soil and water conservation district supervisor cooperated with the conservation service in developing the watershed program.

Four proposed new sections of the district's official plan cover Dog, Hagerman, Upper Prairie creeks, and headquarters of the Little Auglaize River. If approved by the court, these streams will be added to those already in the official plan—Little Auglaize, Town, Maddow, Middle and Hoaglin-Prairie, thus bringing total channel improvement to 186.9 miles.

Land owners can file objections in writing with the conservancy district secretary in Defiance not later than June 1. Hearings are set for Van Wert, June 13; Celina, June 15; Paulding, June 16, and Ottawa, June 17, in their respective court houses at 10 a. m.

B52s Plaster Cong Center

Raid Is Near Cambodia Border

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — High-flying B52 bombers plastered the Viet Cong stronghold near the Cambodian border today for a fifth successive day.

The American Stratofortress dropped their 750-pound bombs on a suspected Communist arms factory and training area 75 miles northwest of Saigon.

Over North Viet Nam, U.S. Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers renewed their attacks in force after a two-day lull during which their flights were almost washed out by monsoon rains.

In the renewed aerial assaults in the north, a U.S. spokesman reported that an F105 Thunderchief was shot down by enemy ground fire 65 miles northeast of Hanoi. The pilot parachuted and was seen on the ground but a rescue attempt was thwarted by heavy anti-aircraft fire.

It was the 229th U.S. plane reported lost over North Viet Nam.

An Air Force F4C Phantom jet ditched off the coast of South Viet Nam near the Cam Ranh Bay air base, 170 miles northeast of Saigon, after it ran out of fuel Wednesday. Both crewmen ejected and were rescued.

All 21 U.S. servicemen aboard a U.S. Army CH47 Chinook helicopter were killed when the helicopter caught fire and crashed Wednesday night in heavy jungle 110 miles northeast of Saigon.

It was one of the worst helicopter disasters of the war. A spokesman said the big helicopter "burst into flames in the air but there was no evidence of enemy action." Aboard were an Army crew of five and 16 soldiers.

A U.S. spokesman reported 70 Americans killed, 589 wounded and seven missing or captured last week compared with 35 killed, 547 wounded, and eight missing or captured in the week of April 17-23.

Since Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 3,152 Americans have been killed in battle or died of combat wounds.

Goldwater Raps Fulbright, 'Spend-Nik Republicans'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Barry Goldwater accused Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., today of carping criticism "that lends aid and comfort to our enemies" in Viet Nam, and said Fulbright should resign as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Goldwater said Fulbright "could do no greater service for his nation and the American fighting men in Viet Nam."

"His carping criticism of any show of American firmness brings joy to our enemies, it confuses our allies, and it demoralizes our troops," Goldwater said in a speech at a conference of some 3,000 Republican women.

Goldwater, Republican presidential nominee two years ago, said he was ashamed of the emaciated senator "telling the American people that our power has made Americans arrogant, and self-righteous, and expansionist, and immoral."

"No American has the right or the justification to level such charges against his country," Goldwater said. "And that goes double for doing it in a time of war and in a fashion that lends aid and comfort to our enemies."

Dirksen Loses Backing in Rights Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leaders apparently have rejected Sen. Everett M. Dirksen's lead in opposing President Johnson's proposed ban on racial discrimination in housing a key provision of the 1966 civil rights bill.

The lack of strong GOP House support so far for Dirksen's stand has raised the hope of civil rights leaders that the controversial provision can be retained in the new bill.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, has called the housing proposal "absolutely unconstitutional" and predicted it would be removed from the bill. The measure also attacks discrimination in selection of juries, seeks greater protection against violence for civil rights workers and speeds school desegregation.

But key GOP figures in the House are having nothing to do with his stand. Minority leader Gerald R. Ford and Rep. William H. McCulloch, R-Ohio, the senior Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, which will write the bill, say they want to wait until all the evidence is in.

And Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., an important member of the judiciary subcommittee now working on the bill, flatly says Dirksen is wrong.

Most of Nation's Weather Is Fair

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mild temperatures and generally fair weather prevailed over most of the country today, with only a few exceptions.

Rain fell over scattered sections along the Gulf of Mexico coast and in south Texas some heavy rainfall was reported.

In the Northeast a pocket of cold air covered the area, forcing temperatures into the freezing range over portions of New England's interior.

The early morning readings ranged from a low of 25 at Philadelphia, Pa., to 85 degrees at Blythe, Calif.

France Eyes Overflights

NATO Faces Curb On Air Traffic

PARIS (AP) — The United States and its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies are facing the possibility of having to revise military flight routes across Europe drastically as the result of a new French move.

Informed sources in Paris reported Wednesday the French government told the other members of the Atlantic alliance that beginning June 1 it will permit every month its permission for Allied military planes to fly over France or land there.

In the past such permission has been granted on a yearly basis, and almost automatically.

The new French action is another step in President Charles de Gaulle's program to remove France from NATO's military activities.

The sources said there was no indication that the French planned to ban NATO flights and landings. But if they did France with neutral Switzerland and Austria — over which military flights are not permitted — would form an East-West barrier from the Atlantic to the Iron Curtain.

This would sever direct air connection of NATO forces in Italy, Greece and Turkey from those in West Germany, Denmark, Norway, Britain and the Low Countries.

Allied officials say the question of overflights is a key point in negotiations over France's withdrawal from the NATO integrated military command and its demand that all NATO forces get out of France by next April 1.

Envoy to Poland To Boom Trade

WARSAW (AP) — The U.S. ambassador to Poland flew to Washington today to urge an increase in trade between the United States and the Communist countries of Eastern Europe.

Ambassador John A. Gronowski planned to spend nearly three weeks in the United States. He will report to President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on his five months as envoy to Poland and his recent swing through neighboring Soviet bloc countries.

Gronowski said more trade with Soviet bloc countries would help ease the U.S. balance of payments deficit and also would reduce international tensions.

But House Action Provides Boost LBJ Doesn't Want

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee slashed more than $302 million today from the $14.3 billion President Johnson requested to finance 24 federal agencies next year.

It was the first substantial reduction recommended by the committee in five big money bills this session. The committee's approval of several hefty increases in earlier bills has prompted the President to criticize congressional spenders.

But if the committee's action today is sustained next week by the House, it may evoke more presidential criticism.

Among other cuts, the committee knocked out the entire $19 million asked to keep Project Mohole going. This is a National Science Foundation project to drill deep into the earth beneath the sea to try to find out about the earth's age make-up and other scientific data. Congress has provided $55.4 million for the project over the past four years.

In ordering the project terminated, the committee said the cost already has greatly exceeded original estimates and the additional money requested "can be more advantageously used in other activities."

The committee let the ax fall on another administration project — the rent subsidy program enacted last year to provide better private housing for low-income families through a system of supplemental payments to landlords.

The President requested $35 million for new rent subsidy contracts for next year plus $3 million for payments on contracts already made. The committee cut the new funds to $20 million and chopped $1 million from the 1966 payments.

It included language limiting use of any of the money to projects "officially approved by the local community council" (Continued on Page 2)

Reserve Board Chief Calls for Tax Boost

NEW YORK (AP) — William McCresney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, proposes a "simple, clean-cut, across-the-board increase in taxes."

He says such an increase—in both corporate and personal taxes—would be the "logical way" to deal with inflation problems he said are posed by the federal government's budget deficit.

Martin also said Wednesday night that taxes should be increased despite what he called "political problems" that might be involved.

U.S. Admits War Action Spills into Laos, Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war in Viet Nam has been spilling over into Laos and Cambodia and the United States is encountering more difficulty in obscuring the fact.

Two unusual official disclosures in the last three days have thrown fresh light on the involvement in combat actions of territories in both Laos and Cambodia.

In Washington, the Defense Department reported for the first time on casualties in air operations over Laos. The reports showed that in the past two years 11 U.S. flyers have been killed there and somewhat fewer than 20 others have been listed as missing or captured by Communist forces.

And in Saigon, a U.S. spokesman confirmed accounts from news correspondents on the scene that last Saturday American artillery fired across a boundary river into Cambodian jungles to silence enemy guns when U.S. troops ran into heavy fire from Viet Cong forces on the Cambodian side.

Washington authorities asserted that in the prolonged operations over Laos and in the brief clash across the Cambodian border, the Communists were responsible for initial violations of territory outside Viet Nam and that the U.S. fire was defensive.

Officials in Washington denied that this week's unusual disclosures resulted from any policy decision to signal a new and broader plane of warfare in Southeast Asia. Basic U.S. policy, they said, is still to keep the conflict confined to Viet Nam but Communist actions sometimes force counteractions outside that country.

When such actions do occur the practice of the State and Defense departments has been to say nothing about them if possible and otherwise to make minimum disclosure. The justification offered for this practice is that sensitive relations with other governments are involved.

As the Viet Nam war grows in intensity, however, it is now recognized here that the policy of silence may very well be more difficult to maintain.

U.S. air operations over Laos began in May 1964. The State Department said at that time that the neutralist government of Laos had requested aerial reconnaissance to get information on positions of Communist troops.

That information was made available here after Communist China broadcast that Communist forces in Laos had fired on U.S. aircraft.

In early June 1964, an unarmed reconnaissance plane was reported shot down by Communist fire. The next day a U.S. Navy jet fighter also was reported shot down. On June 8 Washington officials said that fighter planes escorting the unarmed reconnaissance aircraft had received orders to fire on Communist military installations when necessary to protect the reconnaissance craft.

Traffic Death Toll Record Established

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council has reported another record statistic in the nation's traffic death toll.

The council reported Wednesday that 10,710 persons died in traffic accidents during the first three months of this year. This was a 7 per cent increase over a similar period last year.

Traffic deaths in March totaled 3,730 or 12 per cent more than in March 1965, the council said.

Uniting Churches Adopt Charter of Principles

By GEORGE W. CORNELL Religion Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Representatives of eight major denominations overwhelmingly adopted today a set of principles as a basis for uniting into one church.

The action climaxed five years of work and displayed a dramatic consensus on issues which in the past have kept Protestants apart.

It also, for the first time, set concrete guideposts for the merger undertaking.

Voting in series on each portion of the 105-page document, the meeting approved opening chapters Wednesday night and swept through additional material this morning, with several items still to be acted on.

But the seeping sentiment for passage already was clearly demonstrated, as section after section went through without dissent. Pledging their commitment to a unified church, the mixed company of Christians set forth the basic tenets for it, and declared:

"What we shall find in this venture, we believe, is nothing less than the lost greatness in the church's life."

It was the first time in five years of work that the Consultation on Church Union (CCU) had agreed on a concrete set of guidelines.

Eight denominations, with more than 24 million members and a wide range of traditions, customs and systems, are involved.

Avowing that "the people of God exist as one people" and that "they have been made so in Christ," the assembly said:

"We resolve to attempt, under God, a more inclusive expression of the oneness of the church of Christ than any of the participating churches can suppose itself to be."

The denominations involved are:

Protestant Episcopal, Methodist, United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., Presbyterian, Church in the U.S. (Southern), Evangelical United Brethren, Disciples of Christ, Africa Methodist Episcopal, Church, and the United Church of Christ.

The "principles for church union" are to be commended to the denominations as the starting basis on which to build a more detailed plan.

This, and the sequence of adoption would take at least another five years.

The document approved here, however, was regarded as a major turning point in the project.

It presents a pattern of flexibility and diversity and of freedom balanced with order for a united church. Among the provisions:

Interest of all concerned," but he planned to "ask for the vote of all of the people who believe in my platform and philosophy."
The freshman congressman, one of five Republican House members elected in Alabama during the Barry Goldwater state landslide in 1964, said he would begin his campaign to the two-party system and the idea that Wallace represents "the Democratic party of Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey."
Martin is considered a potent vote getter. In 1962, he almost unseated U.S. Sen. Lister Hill, a Democrat.

Mrs. Holt's role in the project has been a quieter but equally vital one.
She received her nursing degree from the University of Iowa in 1926, but nursing is only one of her many skills.
In 1956 she wrote a book, "The Seed from the East," in which she told the story of the first two years of the adoption service and the Korean orphanage run by Holt.
She even has directed and edited a movie illustrating the operation of the Korean orphanage.
Her 23-year-old daughter, Suzanne, and five other fulltime employees handle the bulk of office work for the agency. Daughter Millie, 31, is a missionary nurse in Korea working with orphans.

Lions Hear Report on 'Y' Program

Progress being made toward formation of a YMCA here was outlined during this week's meeting of the Circleville Lions Club.
A description of the program being followed was offered by John Jenkins, a member of City Council and one of the "Y" program backers.
Organizational, financial and working committees have been formed, Jenkins said. Methods of obtaining financial aid and an executive secretary are being studied, he added.
Club officers for the coming year were elected.
Slated to be installed at the May 17 meeting are: W. E. Reichelderfer, president; Nolan Sims Jr., vice president; Charles Wellman, second vice president; Charles Curlett, third vice president; Clarence Radcliffe, secretary; Wes Edstrom Sr., treasurer; Garold Crites, tail twister; Phil Everett, lion tamer; Larry Jacobs, one-year term, board of directors; Frank Woodward Jr., two-year term, board of directors; R. E. Nau, three-year term board of directors.

Logan Elm Musicians Are Honored

Eighty Logan Elm students, members of the school band or chorus as well as some of the smaller performing groups, were guests at a Music Appreciation Banquet Wednesday, sponsored by the Logan Elm Booster Club.
John Henn, executive head of the district, served as toastmaster for the program. Robert Petty, music director, spoke briefly listing the essentials for a good music program. Among them were enthusiasm, community and parental support, attitudes of students and cooperation and assistance of the school administration and faculty.
Petty also explained the point system used in rating performing groups in the Ohio Music Education Assn. adjudications. He offered congratulations to the chorus, boys' ensemble, girls' ensemble, the band and to individuals who received superior ratings in the competition.
Dr. George Wilson, president of the Ohio Music Education Assn. and professor in the School of Music at Ohio State University, also spoke briefly.

DR. WILSON congratulated the students for their successful year and the entire school district upon passage of the tax levy.
Vocal music was presented by the boys' octet and the girls' ensemble. Lorna Poling and the stage band also presented several numbers. A facsimile of the medals won in state competition was presented to Petty by the ensembles and a gift of appreciation was given to him by the entire music department.
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has reissued a directive calling on lenders to disclose fully the cost of credit extended to servicemen.

Panel Urges

Minority groups have interpreted this provision as designed to keep them out of new suburban housing.
The over-all budget of the Department of Housing and Urban Development was cut from $710.4 million to $637 million. The reductions included $5 million in urban planning grants, $8 million in grants to develop neighborhood facilities and $10 million in payments to local housing authorities.
The entire $5.1 million requested for grants for training programs in community development was turned down.
In the House itself, the President's efforts to curb spending were dashed aside. The chamber, by a vote of 354-27, passed a $10.55 billion appropriations bill including $489 million the President didn't want.

The bill sent to the Senate provides financing for the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the fiscal year starting July 1. It was approved informally by voice vote Wednesday.
Most of the increase in funds not requested by the President was for health and education programs. Before passing the bill today, the House rejected by a 235-143 roll-call vote an amendment by Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, for a 5 per cent cut across the board.
Bow, senior Republican member on the appropriations committee which recommended the budget breaking allotments, offered an amendment Wednesday to cut back federal money for payments to school districts in areas where many federal civilian and military families live.
The bill would provide $416.2 million for these payments, $232.8 million more than the President requested.
Bow's amendment to change the payment formula and reduce payments lost by voice vote.

Driver Fined, Jailed on Two Charges

A Columbus motorist was sentenced to 10 days in the County Jail and handed fines totaling $250 today by Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb.
Willie E. Montgomery, 31, was cited by the State Highway Patrol for driving while under the influence of intoxicants and for driving the wrong way on a one-way highway.
He entered a plea of guilty to both counts. His driving rights were suspended for one year.
Other motorists on the court docket were:
Harry Bradford, 43, Lima; Albert Chim, 47, Dayton; $19 bond forfeitures for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.
Willie Johnson, 19, Columbus; $15 and costs for failure to maintain an assured clear distance in which to stop.
Robert Sowers, 21, Allensville, $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.
John Keebler, 39, Chevy Chase, Md.; $24 bond forfeiture for failure to yield the right of way.
Elijah Fletcher, a truck driver; $25 and costs for operating a commercial vehicle with no PUCO tax decal.

Solon Lists Results on Opinion Poll

Results of a public opinion poll conducted by Congressman William H. Harsha, Ohio 6th District, indicate Pickaway County followed a general trend in evaluating government policies and programs.
Pickaway listed heavy opposition to President Johnson's proposed increase in foreign aid spending. An overall tabulation disclosed all nine counties in the district rejected the increase by more than a 15-1 ratio.
A slight majority of constituents from Pickaway also expressed a desire to increase our military effort in Viet Nam. Percentage-wise, 58.8 favored this move. Only 14.2 backed our present holding action and 20.8 voted in favor of removing our military forces.
The local reaction to increasing taxes to finance additional costs of the Viet Nam war instead of cutting back on other government spending projects also was on the negative side. Opposed to this plan were 92.6 of those submitting replies to the question.
Expanding trade with Russia and other communist countries also was shunned. Replies from Pickaway to this effect amounted to 76.2 per cent.
Harsha said the response to his public opinion poll was gratifying. "It indicates a growing concern about the problems which face our nation today," he added.

The Ohio lawmaker pointed out that he has sent out a questionnaire each year to give the people of the 6th District an opportunity to express their views. Many people also wrote individual letters expanding on the "yes" or "no" selection on the computer card used.

Rising Trend Is Noted in Tax Receipts

A continuing rise in Pickaway County's Sales and motor vehicle tax collections has been reported by John D. Herbert, state treasurer.
For the fiscal year from July 1, 1965 until April 30, sales tax collections totaled $262,139.44. This is an increase of $9,608.07 over the $252,531.37 collected last year.
Motor vehicle tax collections are up $25,469.26 for the current fiscal year. Total collections are $245,665.52 compared to $220,196.26 last year.
For the two - week period ending April 30, sales tax collections were $12,450.46 compared to $7,182.62 one year ago.
Motor vehicle tax collections for the last two weeks of April were placed at $13,379.42 by the state treasurer. One year ago collections were $12,619.91.

Lions Hear Report on 'Y' Program

Progress being made toward formation of a YMCA here was outlined during this week's meeting of the Circleville Lions Club.

A description of the program being followed was offered by John Jenkins, a member of City Council and one of the "Y" program backers.

Organizational, financial and working committees have been formed. Jenkins said. Methods of obtaining financial aid and an executive secretary are being studied, he added.

Club officers for the coming year were elected.

Slated to be installed at the May 17 meeting are: W. E. Reichelderfer, president; Nolan Sims Jr., vice president; Charles Wellman, second vice president; Charles Curlett, third vice president; Clarence Radcliffe, secretary; Wes Edstrom Sr., treasurer; Harold Crites, tail tamer; Phil Everett, lion tamer; Larry Jacobs, one-year term, board of directors; Frank Woodward Jr., two-year term, board of directors; R. E. Nau, three-year term board of directors.

Logan Elm Musicians Are Honored

Eighty Logan Elm students, members of the school band or chorus as well as some of the smaller performing groups, were guests at a Music Appreciation Banquet Wednesday, sponsored by the Logan Elm Booster Club.

John Henn, executive head of the district, served as toastmaster for the program. Robert Petty, music director, spoke briefly listing the essentials for a good music program. Among them were enthusiasm, community and parental support, attitudes of students and cooperation and assistance of the school administration and faculty.

Petty also explained the point system used in rating performing groups in the Ohio Music Education Assn. adjudications. He offered congratulations to the chorus, boys' ensemble, girls' ensemble, the band and to individuals who received superior ratings in the competition.

Dr. George Wilson, president of the Ohio Music Education Assn. and professor in the School of Music at Ohio State University, also spoke briefly.

DR. WILSON congratulated the students for their successful year and the entire school district upon passage of the tax levy.

Vocal music was presented by the boys' octet and the girls' ensemble. Lorna Poling and the stage band also presented several numbers. A facsimile of the medals won in state competition was presented to Petty by the ensembles and a gift of appreciation was given to him by the entire music department.

Lenders to Gls Eyed

cerned." Minority groups have interpreted this provision as designed to keep them out of new suburban housing.

The over-all budget of the Department of Housing and Urban Development was cut from $710.4 million to $637 million. The reductions included $5 million in urban planning grants, $8 million in grants to develop neighborhood facilities and $10 million in payments to local housing authorities.

The entire $5.1 million requested for grants for training programs in community development was turned down.

In the House itself, the President's efforts to curb spending were dashed aside. The chamber, by a vote of 354-27, passed a $10.55 billion appropriations bill including $489 million the President didn't want.

The bill sent to the Senate provides financing for the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the fiscal year starting July 1. It was approved informally by voice vote Wednesday.

Most of the increase in funds not requested by the President was for health and education programs. Before passing the bill today, the House rejected by a 235-143 roll-call vote an amendment by Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, for a 5 per cent cut across the board.

Bow, senior Republican member on the appropriations committee which recommended the budget breaking allotments, offered an amendment Wednesday to cut back federal money for payments to school districts in areas where many federal civilian and military families live.

The bill would provide $416.2 million for these payments, $32.8 million more than the President requested.

Bow's amendment to change the payment formula and reduce payments lost by voice vote.

Driver Fined, Jailed on Two Charges

A Columbus motorist was sentenced to 10 days in the County Jail and handed fines totaling $250 today by Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

Willie E. Montgomery, 31, was cited by the State Highway Patrol for driving while under the influence of intoxicants and for driving the wrong way on a one-way highway.

He entered a plea of guilty to both counts. His driving rights were suspended for one year.

Other motorists on the court docket were:

Harry Bradford, 43, Lima; Albert Chim, 47, Dayton; $19 bond forfeitures for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Willie Johnson, 19, Columbus; $15 and costs for failure to maintain an assured clear distance in which to stop.

Robert Sowers, 21, Allensville, $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

John Keebler, 39, Chevy Chase, Md.; $24 bond forfeiture for failure to yield the right of way.

Elijah Fletcher, a truck driver; $25 and costs for operating a commercial vehicle with no PUCO tax decal.

Solon Lists Results on Opinion Poll

Results of a public opinion poll conducted by Congressman William H. Harsha, Ohio 6th District, indicate Pickaway County followed a general trend in evaluating government policies and programs.

Pickaway listed heavy opposition to President Johnson's proposed increase in foreign aid spending. An overall tabulation disclosed all nine counties in the district rejected the increase by more than a 15-1 ratio.

A slight majority of constituents from Pickaway also expressed a desire to increase our military effort in Viet Nam. Percentage-wise, 58.8 favored this move. Only 14.2 backed our present holding action and 20.8 voted in favor of removing our military forces.

The local reaction to increasing taxes to finance additional costs of the Viet Nam war instead of cutting back on other government spending projects also was on the negative side. Opposed to this plan were 92.6 of those submitting replies to the question.

Expanding trade with Russia and other communist countries also was shunned. Replies from Pickaway to this effect amounted to 76.2 per cent.

Harsha said the response to his public opinion poll was gratifying. "It indicates a growing concern about the problems which face our nation today," he added.

The Ohio lawmaker pointed out that he has sent out a questionnaire each year to give the people of the 6th District an opportunity to express their views. Many people also wrote individual letters expanding on the "yes" or "no" selection on the computer card used.

Rising Trend Is Noted in Tax Receipts

A continuing rise in Pickaway County's Sales and Motor Vehicle tax collections has been reported by John D. Herbert, state treasurer.

For the fiscal year from July 1, 1965 until April 30, sales tax collections totaled $262,139.44. This is an increase of $9,608.07 over the $252,531.37 collected last year.

Motor vehicle tax collections are up $25,469.26 for the current fiscal year. Total collections are $245,665.52 compared to $220,196.26 last year.

For the two - week period ending April 30, sales tax collections were $12,450.46 compared to $7,182.62 one year ago.

Motor vehicle tax collections for the last two weeks of April were placed at $13,379.42 by the state treasurer. One year ago collections were $12,619.91.

How New Is 'New' Left?

About a year ago the American people became suddenly aware of something called the New Left. In scores of uncritical articles it was assumed that the New Left was an indigenous rebellion of the young that had no identification with the needs and proddings of any foreign power. The New Leftists were portrayed as enemies of hypocrisy and bureaucracy wherever these blights might crop up. The picture was one of an idealistic generation which had decided to move into action to turn the original American Declaration of Independence into a belated reality.

But now we have definitive evidence that the New Left, despite its hopeful beginnings, has been penetrated and taken over by the watchful fathers of the Old Left. A young man named Phillip Abbott Luce, who is destined to be known as the Whittaker Chambers of his generation, tells the whole disastrous story of the Communist, Maoist and Castroite capture of a movement in a just-published book called "The New Left."

If someone in the F.B.I. had authored this tale, it might be written off as prejudiced dreaming. But Mr. Luce was no outsider looking in upon the plottings of campus rebels at Berkeley, California, and Madison, Wisconsin. He was, quite literally, "there" as one of the inner circle of the Maoist Progressive Labor Party. He quit this group a year ago because, as he explains it, he was expected to commit his young friends in the movement to deeds of violence without explaining to them the consequences that might be involved. This evidence of "bourgeois honesty" on his part was sufficient to get himself ranked by the "Communist cabal" as "somewhere near President Lyndon B. Johnson and J. Edgar Hoover as their most-maligned enemy."

The quotation marks are Mr. Luce's own, and the ambiguity about who is doing the "malicious" is not, after all, very important. From both the context of the book and the gossip around New York, it is obvious that it is the Old Left Communists who are spreading the slander about the Luce character. Mr. Luce has told the truth and it is hurting his old buddies.

The early New Left grew out of student interest in the desegregation struggles of the American Negro. Another inspiration was the success of the Cuban Castroites in overthrowing the Batista dictatorship in Havana. The "freedom marches" in Mississippi and the appearance of Fidel's "barbudos," or "bearded ones," in the jungles of the Cuban Sierra Maestra, seemed to indicate that the "Left" could develop a program of "freedom" in America without selling out to the old hacks of official Communism.

Seemingly, it was the Columbia University sociologist C. Wright Mills that prophesied: There could be a native American socialist upsurge that "would not confuse the problems of the intellectuals of West Europe and North America with those of the Soviet bloc, or with those of the underdeveloped worlds."

Mr. Luce, as a college student in Ohio, was taken by some of the C. Wright Mills phrases about "the power elite." He thought he could remain "his own man" even after he had joined the Progressive Labor Party in New York, but he soon found out that the seniors of the Old Left organizations had never really lost their muscle even during the time when tough interpretations of the Smith and McCarran Acts had driven many of them underground. The May Second Movement, a New Left grouping of the young that was a supposedly spontaneous reaction against our involvement in Vietnam, was deftly taken over by the Progressive Labor Party. This means that the May Second Movement is a creature of Maoist Communism. The Du Bois Clubs, on Mr. Luce's evidence, are a puppet show run by Gus Hall and the other greybeards of the Old Left Communist Party. Other New Left groupings dance on the strings pulled by Old Left Trotskyites. And the Students for a Democratic Society, which started out as the campus affiliate of the old and honestly Democratic League for Industrial Democracy, has become hopelessly compromised by making a "popular front" with the May Second Movement and the Du Bois Clubs in opposing the Vietnam war.

By John Chamberlain

Mr. Luce tells the story by giving names, addresses, and dates that must have their counterparts in the F.B.I. files. He could be sued for libel by at least forty different people. It will be interesting and instructive to see if anyone sues.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My married daughter is 32 years old. She develops a large swelling below her jaw whenever she eats something spicy. The doctor thinks she has a stone under her tongue. What causes this? How can it be cured?
Mrs. L. J., Idaho

Dear Mrs. J.: There are three sets of glands which manufacture saliva and pour it into the mouth through tiny tubes. Eating spicy foods stimulates a greater flow of saliva.

Besides acting as a lubricant to the tissues of the mouth, saliva contains a very important enzyme, ptyalin, which is of great value in the digestion of starches.

Occasionally a small stone made out of calcium or uric acid clogs up the tiny tube through which saliva reaches the mouth. When this happens the saliva is dammed back into the gland which then becomes painful, tender and swollen.

These stones, or salivary calculi, can grow to the size of a large grape.

Diet and drugs have been accused as being the cause of some of these stones. Yet, they cannot be cured by either.

The exact location of the stone can be determined with remarkable accuracy by X-ray. Often the stone can be felt by the doctor's finger.

Surgery, either through the mouth or through the side of the neck, is very safe and successful.

I have a diaphragmatic hernia and would like to know your attitude towards surgery for this condition. Is this the only possible cure?

S. S., New York
Dear Mr. S.: For the benefit of other readers, let me explain that a diaphragmatic hernia is one in which the stomach projects through an enlarged opening in the diaphragm.

Sometimes the stomach or even the intestines are found by X-ray to be lying in the chest cavity.

A hiatus hernia is a form of diaphragmatic hernia.

These hernias can usually be kept under control with medicines and with well-regulated diets. A small amount of food, eaten at frequent intervals, places less burden on diaphragmatic hernias.

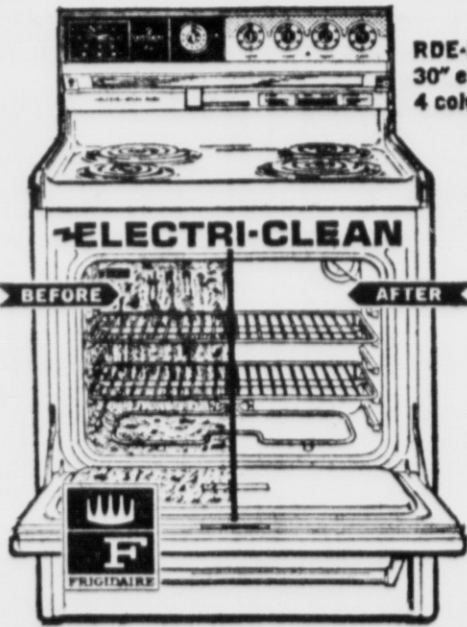

The need for surgery depends on the exact condition of each individual patient. If there is persistent and disabling pain, or if there is an obstruction to the passage of food through the stomach or intestine, then surgery must be considered.

Surgery is aimed at closing the opening in the diaphragm and replacing the abdominal contents to its rightful position.

Alcoholism is an illness without a cure. But alcoholism can be controlled by the physician, the spiritual advisor and especially by Alcoholics Anonymous. Encourage the alcoholic to join.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader, one of the greatest pains in the neck the automobile industry ever encountered, has put in years analyzing the problem of safety in American cars but not much time analyzing himself.

As few ever have, this tall, gangling, unmarried, 32-year-old lawyer has helped light a fire under Congress and the automakers with his criticism of the latter and his crusade for safer cars.

He has done it with his book, "Unsafe At Any Speed," which hasn't made him a fortune, and his statements before Congress and groups anxious to hear his attack.

This year Congress may pass a law laying down federal safety standards and requirements such as have never been imposed on the industry. The automakers finally thought this might be worthwhile although a few weeks before they didn't.

Nader is not only not a mechanic, he doesn't own a car. He has gathered his information from various sources, like studies and engineering reports. He often goes sleepless to do research and prepare his next day's statements.

The night before last, getting ready to appear before a congressional committee Wednesday he didn't sleep at all. And when he arrived he had such a bundle of material he needed both arms to carry it.

Nader, a graduate of Princeton and Harvard Law School, gave up a law practice to devote himself full time to this cause. Why? What makes him tick? What's the motivation behind this use of his life for this crusade?

Ask him, and he's a little blank. He relishes the question. He grins and rubs his head and makes a hasty expedition back through his life to childhood in search of the answer. He can't be sure. He can only guess.

And his guess is vague. He thinks his parents, Lebanese with a restaurant in Winsted, Conn., were an influence but he can't say how. He knows he always felt people should do good for one another.

He called it public service. It didn't involve making money. For some reason trying to explain, he thought of the dignity of man and the time he was four years old in the Eastern Orthodox Church his family attended.

He was in line with a lot of other boys, waiting to go up and kiss the bishop's hand, and he didn't want to because he thought it was an indignity to him. Beyond that he seemed at

'Very Conservative' Ohioan Steps Closer to Congress

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Donald E. (Buz) Lukens, 35, former controversial president of the national Young Republican organization, lists his occupation as "politician"—and hopes to make it stick by being elected to congress this fall.

He's halfway there. A bachelor in his first bid for public office, Lukens won the Republican nomination Tuesday for congress in Ohio's 24th District, beating two others.

His Democratic opponent in November will be James H. Pelley, a professor at nearby Miami University.

Many of Lukens' beliefs are tied to Barry Goldwater, who he supported strongly in the ex-Senator's 1964 Presidential bid.

"I am a 'total' Republican and very conservative," said Lukens after his primary election victory.

He did not have party backing, and discounted "only as a rumor" reports that the GOP refused to endorse him because of his work for Goldwater in 1964.

Asked if he sought Goldwater's help, Lukens replied "This is Lukens' campaign. I made a direct appeal to young marrieds, then senior citizens and the young single people. There must have been 1,100 or 1,200 persons working for me."

Lukens gave up his job as a management consultant Feb. 1 to devote full time to his nomination.

Lukens based an aggressive campaign "on returning the government to the people."

"I like a federal government that is trimmed to a sensible size and can handle all the functions as necessary for the well-being and care of the people," he said.

"I want to have restrictions on the amount of control the government can engage in and have over human life."

He said he would like to see a reduction in foreign aid and a constitutional amendment to allow local school boards to permit prayer in schools.

"Viet Nam is the big problem right now," he said. "We need to intensify the war, not scale it, by hitting major targets in the north."

Lukens was elected head of the Young Republicans in 1963 following a storm session in San Francisco when it was agreed to back Goldwater. He held the office two years.

Born on a Warren County dairy farm, Lukens received a degree in criminology at Ohio State University. He was an Air Force officer six years, most of the time as a counterintelligence investigator.

Nader had traveled a lot overseas, writing about problems he saw, and then came home to concentrate on automobiles, believing, he said, he couldn't solve foreign problems but might help solve some at home.

He has other projects in mind when this is finished but won't disclose them. One friend said of him:

"The good thing about what he is doing is that it shows the individual counts and can get things done. The old saying about individual effort — 'you can't fight city hall' — didn't count in his case."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Friend Playing Wrong Fairway

DEAR ABBY: We recently bought a new home near our golf club. We have no children and my husband and I have always been very happy together. My husband urged me to take up golf, which I did. I enjoy it a lot and became quite an accomplished golfer in a very short time. This seemed to please my husband very much. Then one of my friends told me that she had heard my husband was delighted that I had taken up golf. Why?

Because then he would always know where I was, and he would be free to go where he pleased and with whom he pleased, and I wouldn't be calling his office every few hours to check up on him. Do you think this friend has a point?

GOLFER

DEAR GOLFER: Your "friend" has less of a "point" than you have—a pointed head if you pay any attention to this vicious little trouble maker.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor I'll call Dora. She comes here at 8 a.m. and sits all day long. She is 32, unmarried and has no job. (She says she can't get one because she is so heavy, yet she eats everything offered to her and plenty of it.) She made it plain she wants a man. I have a bachelor brother, 52, who comes here a lot, and Dora likes him, but he has never even given her a smile. Every unmarried man she meets here, regardless of his age, she thinks we invited here to meet her. We can't talk over family matters because Dora is here. I hate to be rude or unkind and tell her not to come over, but my husband says I should. Yet he hasn't the nerve to do it himself. This has been going on for a year. Can you help me?

NO WAY OUT

DEAR NO WAY: Apparently Dora has the mentality of a child. Treat her as one. No need to be unkind or rude. Simply tell her she must not come over every day. You'd do Dora a tremendous kindness if you encouraged her to diet and get

EUB Women Hold Meeting

The Loyal Daughters Sunday School class of the First EUB Church met in the Service Center, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Edwin Richardson was program leader using as her theme: "The Benefit of Confidence in God." She read a portion of the Bible and the group sang, "I Need Thee Every Hour" and "Trust and Obey." Mrs. Richardson read the poem, "Power To Become," and Mrs. Porter Martin led in prayer.

Mrs. John Kerns, vice-president, presided for the short business meeting. She used the poem "My Rose" and then called for the secretary's report and roll call. Mrs. Clarence Merz, treasurer, gave her report and Mrs. Charles Ater read a poem. The love offering was received, and the closing prayer was voiced by Mrs. Frank Hawkes.

Contest winners were Mrs. Hawkes and Miss Jessie Cumming.

Refreshments were served by the committee consisting of Mrs. Kenneth Blue, Mrs. Minnie Ogan, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Arthur Brooks and Mrs. James Sawyer.

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' news division under its president Richard S. Salant, wants to do something constructive about the fierce three-network competition that sometimes duplicates coverage of the same stories.

Salant spoke Wednesday to a conference of representatives of the network's affiliated stations. He recalled his "serious reservations" about the opening to closing coverage of political conventions by all three networks two years ago, including what he called "all the trivia and fill — the endless nominations of favorite sons and second speeches, the spontaneous spontaneous demonstrations and so on and so on ad nauseam."

He proposes now to apply editorial judgment to coverage of the May 17 flight of Gemini 9. Barring emergencies, CBS will reduce sharply the amount of network time given to the flight, but will break in for short periods to cover important events — the launching, docking in space, an astronaut's walk in space. And then it will cover the return of the capsule.

"Man's ascent into space is no longer unprecedented nor is each mission so extraordinary," he said. A space journey, he said, once the rocket is in orbit is a second hand story passed along by the space agency which can be seen neither by television reports nor caught by the cameras.

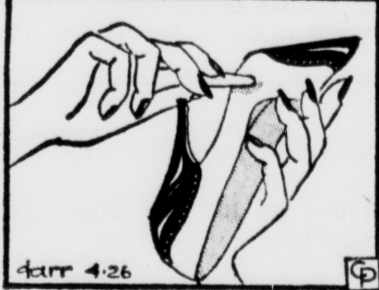

Hugh Downs of NBC's "Today Show" also was talking about television practice Wednesday. In a speech prepared for the Advertising Club of New York he cautioned Madison Avenue about aiming what he called "bad commercials" at viewers.

He decried "too many one-joke commercials repeated to a point of great unfunnyness — a bite out of a hat may be funny but not the 30th time you've seen it."

He also mentioned "biological distortion" — hammers in the head and fires in the stomach. He warned about diminishing credibility by using fantasy that gets too far out.

Downs, who must have delivered thousands of "sponsors' message" in his long broadcast career, did admit that there were some "good commercials" too. But he didn't say which ones he thought they were.

Friend Playing Wrong Fairway

DEAR ABBY: We recently bought a new home near our golf club. We have no children and my husband and I have always been very happy together. My husband urged me to take up golf, which I did. I enjoy it a lot and became quite an accomplished golfer in a very short time. This seemed to please my husband very much. Then one of my friends told me that she had heard my husband was delighted that I had taken up golf. Why?

Monkeys Help in Study Of Human Monkeyshines

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Once each day, five days a week, a tall, blonde psychologist and housewife named Betty Gordon climbs a ship's ladder to a 6-by-6 foot soundproof cubicle on the roof of Seattle's regional primate research center.

Mrs. Gordon seats herself on a stool and watches one of the nine Malaysian monkeys in a larger enclosure on the other side of a one-way glass window.

As she watches, she speaks into a tape recorder.

In a typical session, she might begin like this: "Ama, ia, moe, is, ihrx, moex-10, 10ex mhrzi
mozi iv."

Translated that means:
"Mother and infant are seated close to each other, infant stands, infant steals food from mother, mother stops eating, infant eats, mother grabs infant, mother bites infant, infant vocalizes."

Researchers at the University of Washington say they are finding that such observations give them new insights into human behavior—particularly into what factors make some babies grow into well-adjusted children and adults while others have trouble getting along.

Mrs. Gordon is one of four observers in a mother-infant and group behavior study under
Dr. Gordon D. Jensen, psychiatrist and pediatrician. Each observer records observations for 10 minutes at a sitting, using code because there wouldn't be time otherwise. All observations describe, as Dr. Jensen puts it,
"who does what to whom."

The tapes are analyzed by computers.

A more ambitious study involving 18 monkeys will begin this summer and last several years.

In an earlier study, 12 mothers and their infants were observed—some in deprived, some in enriched and others in semi-enriched environments.

The deprived environment was a cage with nothing in it.

Art Center Policy Altered

Nudes, Beer Cooler Raise Eyebrows

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The facilities of the Milwaukee Art Center have been placed off limits for "spontaneous dramatic performances" following a "napping" in which two nudes bathed in two beer coolers.

Vice squad officers were conducting Tuesday what one called a full investigation of last Friday's "napping."

A group of art students and faculty from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, staged the event which included a nude man and woman.

St. Orval Bellmer of the Milwaukee vice squad said that he and two detectives were questioning art center leaders and some of the 250 persons who were in the audience.

When police indicated an interest in the happening after it happened, art center director Tracy Atkinson said the event "was about as sensational as a marble statue in a museum."

Maurice W. Berger, president of the center of board of trustees, took a little different view.

"Henceforth the facilities of the art center will not be available for spontaneous dramatic performances," he said.

Both Atkinson and Berger disclaimed any advance knowledge of nudes appearing in the show.

Atkinson explained that "a happening is a kind of extension of abstract art in which the artist is a performer with his canvas."

In other words -- two nudes, plus motercyclists, dancers, actors, a grave digger and a fire fighter—all were artists performing off canvas.

Buddhist-Dominated Viet Cabinet Prospects Come under Close Study

By PETER ARNETT SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — "It's wishful thinking by the doves, and near hysteria by the hawks."

That is how one observer summed up foreign reaction to a possibility that a Buddhist-dominated National Assembly in Saigon might end the war by making a quick deal with the Communists, then tell the United States to go home.

The comment reflected a growing feeling in Saigon that the Buddhists are not as pacifistic as many thought during recent weeks of crisis which resulted in capitulation by the military government to the Buddhists.

At that time, Buddhist leaders were deliberately vague about the future of the United States in Viet Nam and the war. Asked at a news conference if the Buddhist hierarchy wanted the war to end and the Americans to go home, the militant monk Thich Thien Minh replied: "If the people want that, then it shall be."

Studious-looking Thien Minh himself has reflected the change, or maybe clarification, in Buddhist thinking. Asked recently to comment on the war, he replied: "I think the United States should drop more bombs on Hanoi. And bomb Peking too, if you have the nerve."

Thich Tri Quang, the ascetic central Vietnamese mastermind of the recent troubles, has gone on record three times recently with statements that tend to support the status quo in Viet Nam.

Tri Quang has specifically singled out the Communist ideology as a threat to Buddhism, a comment reassuring to Westerners mistrustful of the extremist Buddhists.

But neither Tri Quang nor Thien Minh mentioned the Viet Cong movement, the Communist-directed organization that has grown into a full sized army in recent years.

Whatever theoretical concepts the Buddhists are espousing these days are taking second place to the demands of practical politics. Ever since the government agreed to hold elections before September, senior Buddhist monks have been out on the hustings, Buddhist style, that is conferring in provincial pagodas with local monks and lay members.

The Buddhists also have been mending fences, particularly

Desi Arnez Comes Back As Desilu Studio Tenant

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After a three-year absence, Desi Arnez is back at work in the studio that bears his name. But there's a difference.

Whereas the onetime bongo drum-pounder once ruled the Desilu empire, he is now a renter of space at Desilu Culver studio. He occupies the suite which David O. Selznick used until his death last year. In hon-or of Desi's return, the place has been redecorated from "Gone With The Wind" decan-ent to California casual.

The lady who ordered the redecoration is Lucille Ball, Desi's former wife and costar, and his successor as president of Desilu.

"The prettiest landlady in the world," he said. "And a won-derful woman."

Their connection now is pure-ly as landlady and lessor, since Desi sold Lucille all his Desilu stock when he stepped out of the business three years ago.

Why did he leave?

"For a number of reasons," he said. "I found that I was working terribly hard, mostly in things that I wasn't particularly interested in. I was stuck with the managerial end of running three studios with 3,000 em-ployes. That wasn't what I got

Red Literary Critic Gets Suspended Term

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet liter-ary critic Igor Golanchuk was given a six-month suspended sentence Tuesday for refusing to testify at the Sinyavsky-Dan-iel trial.

Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel were sentenced in Feb-ruray to seven and five years at hard labor for smuggling anti-Soviet writings abroad. Go-lanchuk lectured at the Gorki Institute of World Literature with Sinyavsky.

At his trial Golanchuk admit-~~ted~~ he had copies of the impris-oned writers' works but would not say how he had acquired them. To do so would make peo-ple who helped him get them liable for prosecution, he said.

Detergent Sewer Odor Traced by Scientists

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Sci-entists at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute are at work to remove the smell created by detergents in city sewers.

Dr. Nicholas L. Cisceri, an assistant professor of environ-mental engineering at RPI said Tuesday the research is aimed at developing a method to rid sewage of phosphorous, a com-mon element of synthetic deter-gents.

Phosphorous, he said, acts as a food for certain algae — in-cluding the smell-producing kind.

Desi Arnez Comes Back As Desilu Studio Tenant

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After a three-year absence, Desi Arnez is back at work in the studio that bears his name. But there's a difference.

Whereas the onetime bongo drum-pounder once ruled the Desilu empire, he is now a renter of space at Desilu Culver studio. He occupies the suite which David O. Selznick used until his death last year. In honor of Desi's return, the place has been redecorated from "Gone With The Wind" decaden- to California casual.

The lady who ordered the redecoration is Lucille Ball, Desi's former wife and costar, and his successor as president of Desilu.

"The prettiest landlady in the world," he said. "And a won- derful woman."

Their connection now is pure- ly as landlady and lessor, since Desi sold Lucille all his Desilu stock when he stepped out of the business three years ago.

Why did he leave?

"For a number of reasons," he said. "I found that I was working terribly hard, mostly in things that I wasn't particularly interested in. I was stuck with the managerial end of running three studios with 3,000 em- ployes. That wasn't what I got

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet liter- ary critic Igor Golanchuk was given a six-month suspended sentence Tuesday for refusing to testify at the Sinyavsky-Dan- iel trial.

Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel were sentenced in Feb- ruary to seven and five years at hard labor for smuggling anti-Soviet writings abroad. Go- lanchuk lectured at the Gorki Institute of World Literature with Sinyavsky.

At his trial Golanchuk admit- ted he had copies of the impris- oned writers' works but would not say how he had acquired them. To do so would make peo- ple who helped him get them liable for prosecution, he said.

Steven Crist, 11, Already Able Vegetable Grower

Steven Crist, 11, may be classed as one of Circleville's more serious gardeners. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crist, 600 Ridgewood Drive, he has been growing garden produce since the age of seven or maybe six.

Of recent years he has become a commercial vegetable grower (on a small scale of course). He enjoys the monetary rewards of his work right along with the satisfaction of planting seeds and reaping a harvest.

Steven's mother loves gardening and has encouraged her young son in his efforts. Mrs. Crist likes to remember a former neighbor, Mrs. Harry Welch, 552 E. Franklin, who guided her own beginning projects in gardening.

Although Steven gets plenty of encouragement from his family, the garden is his and he does all the work. This year the garden was enlarged and some grass turf had to be deeply spaded. This of course was spaded for him. But once the spaded - under turf is made into garden Steven takes over.

MOST interesting to Steven are the strawberries which center his garden. He has 75 plants. He remembers he had three bundles with 25 plants each. The first year he picks off the blossoms so that the plants will be strong. The second year he harvests his crop.

The youngster, who is in the 5th grade at Atwater School, has loaned a strawberry plant to his class. It has a blossom on it. If there are no honey-bees in the 5th grade classroom, he had better give a demonstration of hand pollination so the plant will produce a berry or two.

Steven was given a small plastic greenhouse for Christmas. He has raised dozens of tomato plants from seeds in this facility. It is installed in the basement and has a heating unit. The greenhouse is about 18 inches by six inches.

Steven is regarded by the garden editor as having a good level head for business. When he discovered he was growing a surplus he setup a stand in the front yard. But drivers who passed his Ridgewood establishment apparently were too anxious to get home.

Steven gave the stand a fair trial. According to his mother he waited for customers with great patience. But the customers just would not stop.

We do not know if Steven is familiar with the saying "If Mohammed won't come to the mountain then the mountain will come to Mohammed." But that's what happened. The youngster took a basket laden with choicest produce and peddled his vegetables - and with success.

YOUNG Crist does every bit of the work himself. That is with one exception. His 7-year-old sister, Susan, serves on his one-assistant staff. But as Steven explained, "She's good help when she wants to work, but she will only work when she feels like it."

Susan acknowledged that this was the way things were. But on occasion she does work rather hard.

Steven has planted peas, radishes, head lettuce, green onions and asparagus this spring. Later he will plant corn, cabbage, beans and set out his tomato plants.

Asparagus will take a couple of years or longer to mature and produce if grown from seeds. Most gardeners buy asparagus plants.

But Steven is a gardener with plenty of time because he got an early start. We'll be watching his asparagus bed with interest.

Monrovia Spring Show Due May 18

The Monrovia Garden Club will present its Spring Flower Show May 18 in the Methodist Church at Five Points.

The event has been designated an open show, and anyone may enter. "Spring Fantasy" will be the theme.

Lunch reservations may be sent to flower show committee chairman, Mrs. Charles A. Fleming, Route 1, Mt. Sterling.

The show, consisting of three divisions, will be judged orally by an accredited judge. The divisions are artistic arrangements, flowering branches and specimens.

Entries in the Litterbug Poster contest, sponsored by the Monrovia Club, will be judged and winners announced during the show.

REAL ENTHUSIAST — Steven Crist, a fifth grader at Nicholas Drive Elementary School, has a greenhouse of his own. A small one, it's about 18 by six inches. It is electrically heated and he can grow dozens of plants in it. Shown here are his tomato plants, about 2½ inches high. He'll be setting them out in the garden as soon as danger of frost is gone.

YOUNG MAN WITH A HOE — Steven Crist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crist of Ridgewood Drive, cultivates his vegetable patch with a hoe. A veteran of almost six years experience in vegetable growing, he has lately taken to peddling his surplus. This gardener had to enlarge his acreage because his dad planted a young maple tree in the garden and its roots take up a lot of good vegetable space.

Don't Expect Great Wonders From Annual Tulip Bulbs

Plant a tulip bulb in the fall and plan for a tulip blossom in the spring!

But do not plan on the same quality of blossom the following spring. The third spring — if you are lucky — you may have several smaller blossoms on one plant. The next spring there may be two fat tulip leaves and no blossoms.

The fourth spring you will be saying, "The tulips did not come up. What have I done wrong?" The answer is "nothing."

Modern tulips are annual bulbs. In the great plantings — Kingwood Center for instance — where thousands are planted each year the tulips are uprooted immediately after blooming and thrown away. New bulbs are used in the fall.

AND why? Do the gardeners at Kingwood just need exercise? Nonsense! The tulips would be so inferior the second year that the Government of Holland which provides the bulbs, we understand, would not be proud of them.

Because the modern tulip is

Garden Gossip

The Dick Ballards of Tarlton have lovely tulips this spring, as, we understand, they have each year.

Lilacs in general this year are not nearly so full of flowers as usual. No it was not the late freeze. They did after all bloom.

Shrubs have good years and not-so-good years. If the season is a hot one, lilacs are often quite pale in color. The color is good this spring, but the bloom not abundant.

When I was visiting the Vern Hawkes' garden this past week, Mrs. Hawkes was showing me her flowering almond. I remarked that it was a shrub I had loved dearly as a child. Then Jack Goode the nurseryman came along and I asked him if he had flowering almond. He said yes. He then asked: "Why not enjoy it this spring?" So I bought three and they are planted and doing nicely.

Mrs. Hawkes said she had not been out to Jack's Nursery for several years. We told her there had been many changes. Goode says: "Lots of changes — four kids, three ducks, two ponds and a garden salesroom!"

Lynwood Ave. at flowering crab time is a beautiful sight. I saw it in the midst of Friday's rain. This is not just a happening that each family has a flowering crab in the front yard. The Lynwood Improvement Assn. planned it this way. What fun if all neighborhoods did something of the sort, and how beautiful!

Mrs. Otto J. Towers, E. Union St., believes that daffodils last indefinitely. She recalls that she has known some daffodil clumps that are more than 50-years-old.

Red Thistle Seeds Now Are Available

New and interesting in the flower world is a rose red thistle from Park's in Greenwood, S. C. It was developed by an Oriental seedsmen. It is a hardy perennial.

The name of this new plant is Thistle - Thistle-down. The color is said to be an outstanding innovation and certain to be a favorite with the arranging contingent.

As far as we are concerned thistles are indeed beautiful. Yes, the pesky field thistles with their lavender blooms are pretty as can be.

As to being favored by arrangers the thistles we know have not been popular. Too many prickles!

OUR GUESS is that arrangers will not be too enthusiastic unless the Oriental plantsman who developed this new rose red thistle has managed to eliminate the prickly stems and foliage.

Anyway we have seeds and we plan to try out Thistle-Thistle-down.

Incidentally, there has been a white thistle across the road from us that puts in an appearance each fall. Interesting, but not nearly as pretty as the lavender thistle!

bulbs. But this does not happen often.

Plant a tulip bulb in the fall and it's a safe bet that you'll have a handsome bossom in the spring.

slowly this week. See if the pink horse chestnut is in bloom. Some years this wonderful tree is a delicate pearl pink. And some years it is white.

The yellow spice bush is a modest little shrub ordinarily. It is an old bush and often outclassed by the more flamboyant Japanese Quince. This year, however, is the year of the spice bush. It is full of blossom. Cricket and Evelyn Huffer of Whisler have beautiful spice bushes and beautiful old fashioned bridal wreath.

The Mark Schumms at 589 N. Pickaway St., had two glorious flowering crabs in blossom last week. The Schumm crabs are in their front yard.

The Whisler Presbyterian Church does not have a flower committee. But members bring flowers which are currently blooming in their gardens. Last Sunday Mrs. Marion Hupp had a pure white amaryllis that she had grown from a bulb. Of course I'm prone to believe that the flower I happen to be looking at is the prettiest. But I could not help thinking that the white amaryllis was a sight prettier than Easter lilies. And I am mighty fond of Easter lilies.

Barbara LaFever who lives with her husband in the upstairs apartment above Dr. Carroll's office saw me taking pictures of the magnolia tree in the yard. She invited me to take a picture from her upstairs porch. And the magnolia did indeed look beautiful from this vantage point. Barbara's husband is one of the engineers on the Deercreek project.

New Edition Rose Annual Now Ready

Rose growers, experts and beginners alike, will be glad to know that the 1966 Rose Annual is ready. This publication is distributed each year by the American Rose Society, 4048 Roselea Place, Columbus.

Date of publication always coincides with the beginning of the rose growing season. Rose growers eagerly await the annual. It is especially valuable to the novice who wishes to learn correct procedure from the start. But even experts like to improve their skills.

This book includes timely information on rose culture, including proper selection and use of pesticides and equipment for their application.

The "Proof of the Pudding" section maintains historical prominence for its candid editorial evaluation and numerical rating of the newer roses based on actual experiences of amateur rose growers in all sections of the U. S. A.

Including beautiful color pages of the new roses for 1966, the edition is a must for the bookshelf of any gardener. Available only from the American Rose Society, the 250-page, hard bound may be purchased or receive free with a membership in the American Rose Society.

Membership also includes a subscription to the "American Rose Magazine," use of the Society's noted lending library on roses, free passage to gardens and rose shows and the availability of a staff of outstanding rose authorities to assist with rose problems.

Membership is prorated on a calendar year basis.

DAFFODILS AT BASE OF BIRCH CLUMP — One of the most difficult garden practices is a planting of flowers around tree trunks. Beginners had better steer clear of this idea. Flowers have to compete with tree roots for moisture as well as food. But Handy Hatfield of Sunset Drive successfully accomplished the feat with this array of daffodils under a clump birch tree. The effect was nothing short of enchanting.

Steven Crist, 11, Already Able Vegetable Grower

Steven Crist, 11, may be classed as one of Circleville's more serious gardeners. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crist, 600 Ridgewood Drive, he has been growing garden produce since the age of seven or maybe six.

Of recent years he has become a commercial vegetable grower (on a small scale of course). He enjoys the monetary rewards of his work right along with the satisfaction of planting seeds and reaping a harvest.

Steven's mother loves gardening and has encouraged her young son in his efforts. Mrs. Crist likes to remember a former neighbor, Mrs. Harry Welch, 552 E. Franklin, who guided her own beginning projects in gardening.

Although Steven gets plenty of encouragement from his family, the garden is his and he does all the work. This year the garden was enlarged and some grass turf had to be deeply spaded. This of course was spaded for him. But once the spaded-under turf is made into garden Steven takes over.

MOST interesting to Steven are the strawberries which center his garden. He has 75 plants. He remembers he had three bundles with 25 plants each. The first year he picks off the blossoms so that the plants will be strong. The second year he harvests his crop.

The youngster, who is in the 5th grade at Atwater School, has loaned a strawberry plant to his class. It has a blossom on it. If there are no honey-bees in the 5th grade classroom, he had better give a demonstration of hand pollination so the plant will produce a berry or two.

Steven was given a small plastic greenhouse for Christmas. He has raised dozens of tomato plants from seeds in this facility. It is installed in the basement and has a heating unit. The greenhouse is about 18 inches by six inches.

Steven is regarded by the garden editor as having a good level head for business. When he discovered he was growing a surplus he setup a stand in the front yard. But drivers who passed his Ridgewood establishment apparently were too anxious to get home.

Steven gave the stand a fair trial. According to his mother he waited for customers with great patience. But the customers just would not stop.

We do not know if Steven is familiar with the saying "If Mohammed won't come to the mountain then the mountain will come to Mohammed." But that's what happened. The youngster took a basket laden with choicest produce and peddled his vegetables — and with success.

YOUNG Crist does every bit of the work himself. That is with one exception. His 7-year-old sister, Susan, serves on his one-assistant staff. But as Steven explained, "She's good help when she wants to work, but she will only work when she feels like it."

Susan acknowledged that this was the way things were. But on occasion she does work rather hard.

Steven has planted peas, radishes, head lettuce, green onions and asparagus this spring. Later he will plant corn, cabbage, beans and set out his tomato plants.

Asparagus will take a couple of years or longer to mature and produce if grown from seeds. Most gardeners buy asparagus plants.

But Steven is a gardener with plenty of time because he got an early start. We'll be watching his asparagus bed with interest.

Monrovia Spring Show Due May 18

The Monrovia Garden Club will present its Spring Flower Show May 18 in the Methodist Church at Five Points.

The event has been designated an open show, and anyone may enter. "Spring Fantasy" will be the theme.

Lunch reservations may be sent to flower show committee chairman, Mrs. Charles A. Fleming, Route 1, Mt. Sterling.

The show, consisting of three divisions, will be judged orally by an accredited judge. The divisions are artistic arrangements, flowering branches and specimens.

Entries in the Litterbug Poster contest, sponsored by the Monrovia Club, will be judged and winners announced during the show.

Garden Gossip

The Dick Ballards of Tarlton have lovely tulips this spring, as, we understand, they have each year.

Lilacs in general this year are not nearly so full of flowers as usual. No it was not the late freeze. They did after all bloom.

Shrubs have good years and not-so-good years. If the season is a hot one, lilacs are often quite pale in color. The color is good this spring, but the bloom not abundant.

When I was visiting the Vern Hawkes' garden this past week, Mrs. Hawkes was showing me her flowering almond. I remarked that it was a shrub I had loved dearly as a child. Then Jack Goode the nurseryman came along and I asked him if he had flowering almond. He said yes. He then asked: "Why not enjoy it this spring?" So I bought three and they are planted and doing nicely.

Mrs. Hawkes said she had not been out to Jack's Nursery for several years. We told her there had been many changes. Goode says: "Lots of changes — four kids, three ducks, two ponds and a garden salesroom!"

Lynwood Ave. at flowering crab time is a beautiful sight. I saw it in the midst of Friday's rain. This is not just a happen-so that each family has a flowering crab in the front yard. The Lynwood Improvement Assn. planned it this way. What fun if all neighborhoods did something of the sort, and how beautiful!

Mrs. Otto J. Towers, E. Union St., believes that daffodils last indefinitely. She recalls that she has known some daffodil clumps that are more than 50-years-old.

Red Thistle Seeds Now Are Available

New and interesting in the flower world is a rose red thistle from Park's in Greenwood, S. C. It was developed by an Oriental seedsmen. It is a hardy perennial.

The name of this new plant is Thistle - Thistle-down. The color is said to be an outstanding innovation and certain to be a favorite with the arranging contingent.

As far as we are concerned thistles are indeed beautiful. Yes, the pesky field thistles with their lavender blooms are pretty as can be.

As to being favored by arrangers the thistles we know have not been popular. Too many prickles!

OUR GUESS is that arrangers will not be too enthusiastic unless the Oriental plantsman who developed this new rose red thistle has managed to eliminate the prickly stems and foliage.

Anyway we have seeds and we plan to try out Thistle-Thistle-down.

Incidentally, there has been a white thistle across the road from us that puts in an appearance each fall. Interesting, but not nearly as pretty as the lavender thistle!

bulbs. But this does not happen often.

Plant a tulip bulb in the fall and it's a safe bet that you'll have a handsome bossom in the spring.

New Edition Rose Annual Now Ready

Rose growers, experts and beginners alike, will be glad to know that the 1966 Rose Annual is ready. This publication is distributed each year by the American Rose Society, 4048 Roselea Place, Columbus

Date of publication always coincides with the beginning of the rose growing season. Rose growers eagerly await the annual. It is especially valuable to the novice who wishes to learn correct procedure from the start. But even experts like to improve their skills.

This book includes timely information on rose culture, including proper selection and use of pesticides and equipment for their application.

The "Proof of the Pudding" section maintains historical prominence for its candid editorial evaluation and numerical rating of the newer roses based on actual experiences of amateur rose growers in all sections of the U. S. A.

Including beautiful color pages of the new roses for 1966, the edition is a must for the bookshelf of any gardener. Available only from the American Rose Society, the 250-page, hard bound may be purchased or receive free with a membership in the American Rose Society.

Membership also includes a subscription to the "American Rose Magazine," use of the Society's noted lending library on roses, free passage to gardens and rose shows and the availability of a staff of outstanding rose authorities to assist with rose problems.

Membership is prorated on a calendar year basis.

Don't Expect Great Wonders From Annual Tulip Bulbs

Plant a tulip bulb in the fall and plan for a tulip blossom in the spring!

But do not plan on the same quality of blossom the following spring. The third spring — if you are lucky — you may have several smaller blossoms on one plant. The next spring there may be two fat tulip leaves and no blossoms.

The fourth spring you will be saying, "The tulips did not come up. What have I done wrong?" The answer is "nothing."

Modern tulips are annual bulbs. In the great plantings — Kingwood Center for instance — where thousands are planted each year the tulips are uprooted immediately after blooming and thrown away. New bulbs are used in the fall.

AND why? Do the gardeners at Kingwood just need exercise? Nonsense! The tulips would be so inferior the second year that the Government of Holland which provides the bulbs, we understand, would not be proud of them.

Because the modern tulip is an annual bulb this means that after blooming a new bulb must replace the old one . . . and in a few short weeks.

Gardeners frequently confess to me that their tulips are a failure because they neglected to dig them and allow the bulbs their period of rest before replanting them. This idea is common and quite erroneous. A tulip bulb can rest just as well under the ground as above it.

If you want tulips to come year after year your best bet is to cut the bloom off immediately and fertilize with a good bulb nutrient. A new bulb will grow.

Yes, there are some tulips which are long lived perennials — many of the species tulips I believe are in this category. But learn to enjoy the glorious large flowers of the first spring. Be realistic. Plan to replace your tulips with new bulbs at least every two years.

What about tulip bulbs that never come up — even the first year? Well something horrible has happened. Maybe rabbits chewed off the foliage. Maybe field mice running along tunnels made by moles ate the

Charming Park In Bloom Again In Laurelville

DELIGHTFUL VIEW — Admiring the pleasant scene at Laurelville Park are, from the left: Kenneth Ostheimer, Miss Frances McClelland and Roger Brokaw. A flowering peach crab found there has been termed by many as a memorial to the late Lew McClelland who served as mayor of the village. Ostheimer, an English teacher at Laurelville High School, used the park as a source in writing a delightful poem. Miss McClelland taught for 34 years before retiring. Young Brokaw is a student.

19 Veteran Solons Lose In Primaries

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's first primary election under reapportionment cost both parties 19 veteran lawmakers and pitted several against each other in tough races next fall.

Ten Republican and nine Democratic incumbents lost bids for nomination to the new 99-member House and 33-member Senate whose membership was redied to meet U.S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" edicts.

Senate losers included Ross Pepple, Republican serving his eighth term. Peppi, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, moved from Lima to Perrysburg to run in the new 1st District composed of the counties of Williams, Fulton, Defiance, Henry, Wood and part of Lucas. He lost the nomination to Howard C. Cook of Toledo.

Two Democratic senators also lost nominations. They were Ray T. Miller Jr., Cleveland, in the 21st District and Danny D. Johnson, New Philadelphia, in the 30th.

Miller is a son of the former Cuyahoga County Democratic chairman.

On the House side, nine Republicans and seven Democrats lost nominations for new terms. They included:

Republicans—Terry E. Drake, Gallion, 15th District, Judiciary Committee Chairman Edmund G. James, Caldwell, 29th District, and D. O. Tabor, Gallipolis, 27th District.

Financial Institutions Committee Chairman Carol D. Long, Urbana, 8th District, and Highways Committee Chairman William C. Games, West Union, 29th District.

GARDEN THERAPY — Mrs. Mack Wise, 510 Ridgewood Drive, spent one morning recently battling dandelions. She uprooted them with a long handled prodder. Note the wheelbarrow full of the pesky weeds. 'Zorro' Actor Reveals How He Escaped from Image

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To Adam West's worries that he might become permanently identified as Batman, Guy Williams remarks: Not necessarily.

Williams beat the game. A few years back, it seemed as if he would be stuck forever with the image of Zorro. Yet this season he made a successful return to the home screens as Prof. John Robinson, the man who leads his family through a variety of adventures in CBS' "Lost in Space."

Come to think of it, there is much similarity between Batman and Zorro. Both hark back to the "Scarlet Pimpernel" theme of the young man who poses as a fop while being an undercover do-gooder. Whether on horse or batmobile, both made their entrances out of a cave.

And both Batman and Zorro captured the fancy of the nation. Batman has done so while competing in the same time slot as "Lost in Space," although both are made by 20th Century Fox.

"If that wasn't bad enough," said Williams, "earlier this season, 'Lost in Space' was on at the same time as 'Zorro' in New York City!"

Yet "Lost in Space" has survived to orbit next season, and Williams with it.

His escape from the Zorro image was managed despite the odds — and an unfortunate circumstance.

"We made two seasons of the series, then Walt Disney got mad over his treatment at the hands of ABC," the actor recalled. "The suit was in court for two years and meanwhile I wasn't allowed to do anything. I felt like a kept man; all I did was collect my ever-increasing salary."

"During that time, I had no chance to prove I could do anything else besides Zorro. But I was fortunate in being able to make 'The Prince and the Pauper' for Disney. Then I made three pictures in Europe that helped establish me as an actor. By the time I returned from Europe after three years, the Zorro image was pretty well dissipated."

"I don't mind the fact that 'Zorro' is playing all over the world on reruns. Those residual checks can be mighty comforting."

College Dropout Delivers Paper before Scientists

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The theories of scientists interested in the fact that his own scientific theories interest others.

Now, at the age of 19, he is used to the fact that his own scientific theories interest others.

Although Salb is a college dropout, other scientists listened to him as an equal Tuesday as he delivered a paper before the American Society for Microbiology. And well they might: it was the second paper on virus-cell interaction he has delivered to the group in as many years.

The findings were made while working as a senior research assistant with Dr. Philip I. Marcus, 39, an associate professor of microbiology and immunology at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City. He has been working with Marcus since he was 14.

"Now I have half the lab to myself," the slightly-built youth told an interviewer after fielding a number of intricate questions from scientists who packed the convention auditorium.

A lab is nothing new to Salb, who started one as a preschooler with a child's chemistry set. Soon he had taken over a room in the family home in Monsey, a Rockland County town near New York City.

The smells of chemicals pervaded the house, but his parents, Seymour and Ethel Salb, didn't seem to mind. "They had no objections at all to my not doing other things. They left me alone," he said.

Does he wish now that they hadn't?

"Perhaps. I have developed in a one-sided way, but now I don't have time to pursue other interests, being in the lab so much. But I'm aware of it, and that helps."

"Of course I'm making certain sacrifices, and there are certain things I will never know," said Salb, who dropped out of City College of New York last spring after completing his freshman year, a year in which he admittedly "did rather poorly in biology."

"I think I can get a better education outside of college," he said, adding that he felt college classes too categorized

LOUISVILLE (AP) — During a recent heavy snow, one of the tire chains started banging on the fender of Chester Sullivan's auto.

Sullivan thought for a moment, stopped and used one of his socks to tie up the loose end of the chain. The repair job lasted three days.

Sullivan said he didn't use his necktie because the sock was less costly.

GARDEN THERAPY — Mrs. Mack Wise, 510 Ridgewood Drive, spent one morning recently battling dandelions. She uprooted them with a long handled prodder. Note the wheelbarrow full of the pesky weeds. But she was enjoying it. She has recently been off work due to surgery. She thinks, however, that dandelion hunting is good therapy.

'Zorro' Actor Reveals How He Escaped from Image

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To Adam West's worries that he might become permanently identified as Batman, Guy Williams remarks: Not necessarily.

Williams beat the game. A few years back, it seemed as if he would be stuck forever with the image of Zorro. Yet this season he made a successful return to the home screens as Prof. John Robinson, the man who leads his family through a variety of adventures in CBS' "Lost in Space."

Come to think of it, there is much similarity between Batman and Zorro. Both hark back to the "Scarlet Pimpernel" theme of the young man who poses as a fop while being an undercover do-gooder. Whether on horse or batmobile, both made their entrances out of a cave.

And both Batman and Zorro captured the fancy of the nation. Batman has done so while competing in the same time slot as "Lost in Space," although both are made by 20th Century Fox.

"If that wasn't bad enough," said Williams, "earlier this season, 'Lost in Space' was on at the same time as 'Zorro' in New York City!"

Yet "Lost in Space" has survived to orbit next season, and Williams with it.

His escape from the Zorro image was managed despite the odds —and an unfortunate circumstance.

"We made two seasons of the series, then Walt Disney got mad over his treatment at the hands of ABC," the actor recalled. "The suit was in court for two years and meanwhile I wasn't allowed to do anything I felt like a kept man; all I did was collect my ever-increasing salary."

"During that time, I had no chance to prove I could do anything else besides Zorro. But I was fortunate in being able to make 'The Prince and the Pauper' for Disney. Then I made three pictures in Europe that helped establish me as an actor. By the time I returned from Europe after three years, the Zorro image was pretty well dissipated."

"I don't mind the fact that 'Zorro' is playing all over the world on reruns. Those residual checks can be mighty comforting."

College Dropout Delivers Paper before Scientists

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The theories of scientists interested in the fact that his own scientific theories interest others.

Now, at the age of 19, he is used to the fact that his own scientific theories interest others.

Although Salb is a college dropout, other scientists listened to him as an equal Tuesday as he delivered a paper before the American Society for Microbiology. And well they might: it was the second paper on virus-cell interaction he has delivered to the group in as many years.

The findings were made while working as a senior research assistant with Dr. Philip I. Marcus, 39, an associate professor of microbiology and immunology at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City. He has been working with Marcus since he was 14.

"Now I have half the lab to myself," the slightly-built youth told an interviewer after fielding a number of intricate questions from scientists who packed the convention auditorium.

A lab is nothing new to Salb, who started one as a preschooler with a child's chemistry set. Soon he had taken over a room in the family home in Monsey, a Rockland County town near New York City.

The smells of chemicals pervaded the house, but his parents, Seymour and Ethel Salb, didn't seem to mind. "They had no objections at all to my not doing other things. They left me alone," he said.

Does he wish now that they hadn't?

"Perhaps. I have developed in a one-sided way, but now I don't have time to pursue other interests, being in the lab so much. But I'm aware of it, and that helps."

"Of course I'm making certain sacrifices, and there are certain things I will never know," said Salb, who dropped out of City College of New York last spring after completing his freshman year, a year in which he admittedly "did rather poorly in biology."

"I think I can get a better education outside of college," he said, adding that he felt college classes too categorized.

Sock Was Cheaper

LOUISVILLE (AP) — During a recent heavy snow, one of the tire chains started banging on the fender of Chester Sullivan's auto.

Sullivan thought for a moment, stopped and used one of his socks to tie up the loose end of the chain. The repair job lasted three days.

Sullivan said he didn't use his necktie because the sock was less costly.

Things Look Brighter for Ailing Boy

CLEVELAND (AP)—In the two weeks that Billy Adkins been without his dog, Cookie, he has been despondent. But things look brighter now for the 12-year-old cancer victim.

Generosity has been the turning point.

The disease keeps Billy from leaving his bed. Two years ago he had to withdraw from school. His main playmate during this time has been his three-year-old boxer-bulldog.

Two weeks ago, Cookie wandered away from home and failed to return.

Patrick J. Ziska of the Cleveland Plain Dealer found out about the family's problem and wrote about it. In his story he also said that the Adkins were anxious to hear from their son, Herbert, 22, who was wounded in Viet Nam April 4.

Wednesday, Mrs. Pat Abbey, chief operator of the overseas telephone center in Oakland, Calif., read Ziska's story which was carried by The Associated Press. She called Billy's mother Mrs. Alvis Adkins, and asked if she would like to call her son in Viet Nam. Billy and Mrs. Adkins all had a chance to talk to Herbert, one of the Adkins' eight children.

The four-minute call was paid for by donations from about 60 operators working with Mrs. Abbey. Mrs. Abbey said the call cost about $12.

Another bright spot for the family has been the offer of a woman to give Billy a dog to replace Cookie, and the youngster has decided to accept it.

Central Bus-Buying Deal Is Ruled Illegal by Judge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio education officials have been smacked down on centralized purchasing of school buses by a judge who has ruled their plan is "unlawful and unreasonable."

Problem: How to get new buses?

And it appears to be a whale of a dilemma, judging from reaction at the Ohio Department of Education, State Board of Education and attorney general's office to the finding Wednesday by Judge Henry L. Tolden of Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

Local school boards are on the horns of the dilemma.

If a solution isn't found quickly, officials say, local districts face a problem of "crisis" proportions in a shortage of transportation—especially of safe, reliable vehicles—as of next September.

Ohio's public schools, according to the education department already are short 1,400 new buses without allowing for extension of bus service this fall to private and parochial pupils.

Holden ruled that the rules laid down by the State Board of Education to implement 1965 General Assembly legislation on school bus purchasing exceed the board's authority under the new law.

The judge said the law requires local school boards to handle the bidding and purchasing of school buses.

Under the plan he ruled illegal, local school boards would order through the state, which would lay down specifications and take combination bids from bus manufacturers.

Officials figured centralized buying would save $2,000 per bus.

Local school districts are hampered from buying individually, meanwhile, by a provision of the 1965 law requiring the state subsidies on which most boards depend to help buy buses to be based on the lowest price available.

Robert Duncan, chief counsel for the attorney general, said the ruling blocks use of $3 million appropriated for new buses this year.

Lots of Soldiers Desert on Both Sides in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A lot of soldiers on both sides are deserting in Viet Nam.

Defections from the Communist Viet Cong are running more than 2,300 a month, American officials report.

Against this, the officials say

Army To Need Replacements

Quota Is 100,000 For Duty in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is preparing to provide more than 100,000 replacements for Viet Nam this summer and fall.

The other services also face the replacement problem, but to which has pumped the greatest number of troops by far into Viet Nam since the buildup began last July.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told Congress in recently released testimony that "the big demand for replacements will start in July and extend through October, because that will be one year after the bulk of the Army and Marine Corps forces were deployed to Viet Nam."

Wheeler said "the Army has planned programs to provide the required number of people, which will total something over 100,000."

The replacement "hump" stems from the one-year tour of duty required for U.S. servicemen sent to Viet Nam. They may stay longer, but only if they volunteer for an extension.

Sources said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, strongly favors retaining the one-year tour, even though a stretchout would relieve the manpower squeeze of the services in the United States and elsewhere.

Westmoreland was pictured as believing the hope of being sent home after a year in the war is a major factor in high U.S. troop morale in Viet Nam.

In outlining the sources of replacements for Army troops in Viet Nam, Wheeler said some of the men that are training at various camps around the country will be part of this replacement group.

"Some will be people who have returned from Europe," he said. "Some will be people who are taken from other stations such as Panama and Alaska."

He indicated that the replacements will be shuttled into Viet Nam on an individual, rather than a unit basis.

desertions from the South Vietnamese regular army run currently at 6,600 a month, with additional desertions from the regional and the popular forces.

These figures must be considered in proportion. The government military strength is estimated at 600,000, including auxiliary units. The Viet Cong guerrillas, plus North Vietnamese regulars and village auxiliaries, are estimated to total 200,000 to 250,000.

Most deserters from the South Vietnamese army do not go over to the Viet Cong. Instead they return to their homes, go into hiding or filter into the cities looking for work. Some re-enlist later.

The rate of desertion—nothing new in this land—continues to cause deep concern for both the South Vietnamese government and the American military.

They draw some encouragement from the rising number of Viet Cong defections.

These totaled 2,336 in March, the highest so far, and American officials say a quarter of them were officers. Viet Cong defections, less than 1,000 a month last year, rose to 1,672 in January and 2,011 in February.

American authorities believe one reason for the climb is the worsening of the Viet Cong's military position.

A major factor also is the "chieu hoi," or open arms, program undertaken two years ago by the Saigon government under American sponsorship.

Using psychological warfare—largely leaflets and front-line loudspeakers—the government promises Viet Cong defectors good treatment. It also encourages them to bring over weapons, offering rewards up to 20,000 piastres—$24—for a 57mm recoilless rifle.

The propaganda also plays on the hardships of life under the Viet Cong.

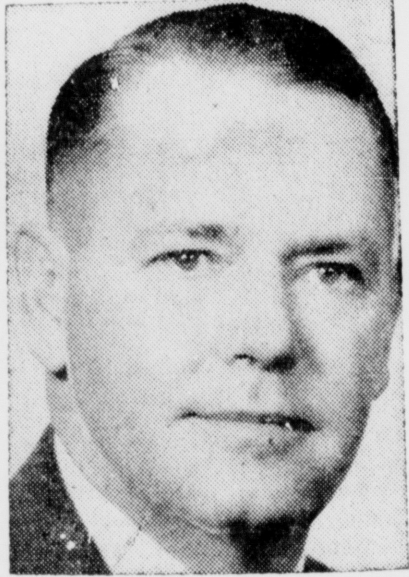

A returnee, as he is called by the South Vietnamese government, is first sent to an "open arms" center for 45 days to be checked and rehabilitated.

Then he is sent back to his native locality if it is in government hands. If not, he is resettled elsewhere.

The government is building 16 housing centers for the returnees and their families. Each center will accommodate 100 families.

The returnee is given a small sum of money and rice for six months. He is exempt from the army draft for a year. If he joins a propaganda team to lure other Viet Cong defectors he is given a salary, an allowance and an 18-month draft deferment.

Vikings Lose To London In 6-5 Tilt

Visiting London edged Teays Valley, 6-5, Wednesday in a non-league baseball tilt.

London erupted for five runs in the fifth inning off Viking starter Dave Cook. Joe Jordan, who had four hits in four trips, climaxed the inning with a bases loaded triple.

Cook was charged with the loss. He gave up nine hits, walked two and fanned two.

John Beavers, a junior, relieved him in the sixth inning and shut out the visitors for the remainder of the tilt.

BEAVERS fanned three, allowed one hit and did not walk any batters.

Porter started for London and was credited with the win. He worked four innings, walking three, fanning four and allowing seven hits. He was relieved by McNeal who walked three and fanned one. The last inning was hurled by Gibson who was credited with one strikeout.

Extra base hits for London included triples by Jordon and Howard and a double by Jordon.

Teays Valley left 10 runners stranded, compared to six for London. The Vikings were credited with 11 stolen bases.

Rick Pickering and Mike Lombardo led the Vikings with hits.

Tuesday the Vikings go against Pleasant View on the latter school's diamond in a Metropolitan League test.

London's record is 2-4. The Vikings now own a 5-5 mark.

Tiger Frosh, Junior High Lose Meet

In a dual meet with Chillicothe Mt. Logan, Circleville junior high and freshmen track teams were defeated.

The frosh score was 43-38 while the junior high went down 57-43.

For the Tiger ninth graders, Rick Sims won the 120-yard low hurdles, Dale Byrd the discus, and Jim Samuel the broad jump. Second place went to Byrd in the hot, Steve Olney in the discus, Samuel in the low hurdles, Sims in the 100 yard dash, Melvin Smith in the 440 and the 880. Third places were earned by Samuel in the 100 and Billy O'Dell in the 440.

Circleville had only eight freshmen competing in the meet.

For the junior high, Craig Dresbach was first in the 220 and the 440. The 440 yard relay team of Kelton Barthelmas, Ty Ankrom, David Ogan and Bill Camp won.

Tying for second in the broad jump were Dresbach and Chris Long. Ankrom was second in the 440, Bill Keener second in the high jump, Mike Hill in the discus, Ogan in the shot, Dick Cordle in the 120 low hurdles, Don Conkel in the 880.

Third place finishers were Keener in the discus, Hill in the high jump, Dick Walters in the hurdles, Bob Courtwright in the 50-yard dash Camp in the 100 and Ogan in the 220.

The next junior high meet is Saturday at Greenfield.

The New York Yankees will visit West Point on April 29 for an exhibition game with Eric Tipton's Army team.

Reds Beaten Again; Bucs Not Unhappy

CINCINNATI (AP)—Pittsburgh Manager Harry Walker has an idea how the Cincinnati Reds feel, but he isn't feeling sorry for them. In fact, he's adding to their troubles.

Walker's Pirates edged the Reds 4-3 Wednesday night, handing the home team its 13th defeat in 17 games. It was the Pirates' sixth triumph over the Reds without a loss.

Reds Manager Don Heffner optimistically commented after the game:

"Well, maybe things will turn our way sometime."

Walker faced the same fate a year ago when the Pirates won only nine of their first 33 games. But they came around and won 81 while losing only 48 the rest of the 1965 season.

"Why, the Reds are not nearly as bad off as we were," Walker insisted. "We were more than twice as bad off. We were in 10th place. Cincinnati has a good ball club. I just hope we get out of town before it wakes up."

Cincinnati practically gave the Pirates the latest victory. Pittsburgh scored three unearned runs in the fourth inning when Pete Rose committed two errors after two batters were out.

Ted Abernathy, the underhand right-handed relief ace of the Chicago Cubs, set a major league record in 1965 by appearing in 84 games, all in relief.

Tigers Shutout By Panthers, 8-0

Circleville High School's baseball team went down to its sixth defeat of the season Wednesday at visiting Miami Trace posted an 8-0 South Central Ohio League victory.

The Panthers' bats boomed for 10 hits, including four doubles. The visitors also took advantage of six Tiger errors in piling up the margin of victory.

Circleville was able to hit the ball, but the visitors were playing a good defensive game. Hurley, the winning pitcher, struck out only three Tiger batters in his shutout performance. However, he exhibited near perfect control, not issuing a single base on balls.

HE GAVE up only three hits — singles by Jim Diltz and Dave Iery and a double by Rick Congrove.

Iery was charged with the loss. He hurled the first five innings and was the victim of six hits. The winners scored six runs while he was on the mound.

He was relieved in the sixth by Don Cordle, Tiger freshman hurler. Cordle walked one, fanned two and was touched for four hits.

Circleville hosts Bishop Ready today in a Central District Class AA tournament tilt. Friday the Tigers play at Wilmington and Monday they are scheduled at Greenfield.

CHS Golfers Blanked by Lancaster

The Circleville High School golf team was blanked, 11-0, Wednesday, at Lancaster Country Club by the Golden Gale linksters.

The Gales, who have lost only to Logan this season, had a 5-man team total of 205, compared to a 227 team score for Circleville.

Medalist honors were shared by Morley and Blum of Lancaster, both of whom carded 40s. Rounding out the host school's scoring, Berry and Stembler shot 42s and Butch a 41.

For Circleville, Richard Fuhrman's 41 was low score. Tim Adams had a 42, Billy Well-don a 48, Brock Bell a 50 and Pete Noble a 46.

Circleville hosts Washington C. H. today at the Pickaway Country Club.

Washington C.H. Seeks Cage Coach

WASHINGTON C. H. — The Washington Board of Education Monday night opened the vacated high school head basketball coaching position to applicants.

Westfall Stopped in Tourney Tilt by Madison South, 6-5

Westfall High School was edged out of Central District tournament play by Madison South, 6-5, Wednesday in a tilt played on the Mustang diamond.

It was the second time in four games this season between the two schools that the Lions have won.

Madison South and Westfall opened the season with a twin-bill won by the Mustangs.

The visitors scored one run in the first inning, added another in the third, scored three in the fifth and notched the winning tally in the final frame.

THE Mustangs exploded for three in the third and scored two in the sixth.

The winning pitcher was Stewart. He fanned 13 and walked five in his route going performance. He was touched for six hits.

Gene Carfrey, a freshman, was the loser. In seven innings, he whiffed nine and issued five bases on ball. Madison South batters collected a total of nine hits.

Pacing the Mustang offense was Tom Hamman, who slammed a double with Delbert Haney and Roger Clark on base, scoring both runners.

Grow healthy alfalfa with Alfa-tox for weevil control. Absolutely no residue in milk.

Here's the nearest thing yet to a "perfect" alfalfa insecticide. Spray Alfa-tox . . . which contains both Diazinon® and methoxychlor . . . for control of alfalfa weevil. Control you can depend on to protect alfalfa against this destructive insect. And just about every other insect known to attack alfalfa.

A properly timed spray of Alfa-tox will protect your first cutting. Check alfalfa bud tips frequently and treat by the time 30-50 per cent of the bud tips show signs of larvae feeding. This provides effective control of larvae which have already hatched, as well as larvae which hatch following application.

Under normal conditions, control of weevil with Alfa-tox lasts for two to three weeks, which is usually ample time to assure protection of your alfalfa until harvest of the first cutting. If a repeat application is necessary, it may be made up to seven days before cutting alfalfa.

You can be sure of no danger of insecticide residue in milk with Alfa-tox. All you have to do is wait seven days after spraying before you graze livestock or cut for green chop or hay.

Ask your supplier for Alfa-tox . . . an insecticide you can depend on to be effective.

Mid-Ohio Grid Loop Is Cut to 3 Teams

BLUEFTON, Ohio (AP) — Withdrawal of Ashland College from the Mid-Ohio Conference, leaving the league with only three football-playing schools, will be the main item at a meeting of MOC officials here May 13. Findlay is scheduled to rejoin the Mid-Ohio in autumn 1968.

tween the two schools that the Lions have won.

Madison South and Westfall opened the season with a twin-bill won by the Mustangs.

The visitors scored one run in the first inning, added another in the third, scored three in the fifth and notched the winning tally in the final frame.

THE Mustangs exploded for three in the third and scored two in the sixth.

The winning pitcher was Stewart. He fanned 13 and walked five in his route going performance. He was touched for six hits.

Gene Carfrey, a freshman, was the loser. In seven innings, he whiffed nine and issued five bases on ball. Madison South batters collected a total of nine hits.

Pacing the Mustang offense was Tom Hamman, who slammed a double with Delbert Haney and Roger Clark on base, scoring both runners.

FARMER FOUNDED | FARMER OWNED | FARMER CONTROLLED

Grow healthy alfalfa with Alfa-tox for weevil control. Absolutely no residue in milk.

Here's the nearest thing yet to a "perfect" alfalfa insecticide. Spray Alfa-tox... which contains both Diazinon® and methoxychlor... for control of alfalfa weevil. Control you can depend on to protect alfalfa against this destructive insect. And just about every other insect known to attack alfalfa.

A properly timed spray of Alfa-tox will protect your first cutting. Check alfalfa bud tips frequently and treat by the time 30-50 per cent of the bud tips show signs of larval feeding. This provides effective control of larvae which have already hatched, as well as larvae which hatch following application.

Under normal conditions, control of weevil with Alfa-tox lasts for two to three weeks, which is usually ample time to assure protection of your alfalfa until harvest of the first cutting. If a repeat application is necessary, it may be made up to seven days before cutting alfalfa.

You can be sure of no danger of insecticide residue in milk with Alfa-tox. All you have to do is wait seven days after spraying before you graze livestock or cut for green chop or hay.

Ask your supplier for Alfa-tox... an insecticide you can depend on to be effective.

Spanish Editors Cautious About Freedom of Press

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A month after Spain's new press law became effective, newspaper editors and officials who administer the law are still sparingly careful.

"We are feeling each other out," said a leading newspaper director. "The law is good, but neither we who publish newspapers nor the Ministry of Information officials who enforce it are quite certain how far we can exploit the freedom it provides without some wrist-slapping."

The law, brainchild of the 43-year-old minister of information, Manuel Fraga Iribarne, ended many decades of press censorship. It provided both new freedoms and new responsibilities for those who write and edit newspapers and magazines.

Those who administer the law say that many newspapers, long accustomed to strict government controls, continue to work as though the new law had never been passed.

A day after the press bill became law, nationally circulated papers reported that a policeman shot and wounded two people during a demonstration of Basque Nationalists in northern Spain.

Two days later Spanish domestic news agencies reported a labor dispute in the industrial center of Bilbao. Major papers carried the stories.

"We are feeling our way into press freedom, but we are still working under wraps," one newspaper director told questioners. "We feel pretty safe in publishing any story a Spanish news agency carries, but when we go out on our own, especially in matters involving politics, we tend to think first and write later."

Nevertheless political articles and news reports involving Spain and its future are appearing with increasing frequency. None has directly criticized the Franco regime.

Among things reported in the press have been a financial scandal in Catalonia involving a former municipal mayor, economic strikes in various industries, direct criticism of Spain's four-year development plan, the recent wave of student disorders. Most if not all would have been banned by the official censor who disappeared with the new law.

One incident involved the semimonthly publication Joé, organ of the liberal-orientated young Catholic workers' group Juventud Obrera Catolica. Under orders from the Archbishop of Madrid, its first April number was destroyed because it carried among other questionable articles one which could have reflected unfavorably on the Spanish army. The Ministry of Information, which enforces the press law — denied responsibility for the censorship.

The Roman Catholic hierarchy is a powerful force in control of the Spanish press, both before and since implementation of the press law.

Newspaper directors still repeat one complaint. Under the press law all foreign news must be funneled into Spain through a national agency — in this case the government-sponsored agency EFE.

2 U.S. Banks May Set Up Own Branches in Saigon

WASHINGTON (AP) — American servicemen in Viet Nam soon may have a hometown bank right in their backyard.

Two of the United States' largest banks — the Bank of America and Chase Manhattan — have been granted permission by the Vietnamese government to set up commercial facilities in Saigon.

Treasury Department officials said today present plans call for both banks to establish what are known as banking facilities — as distinguished from branches — at some military bases in the Saigon area as a convenience for American servicemen.

Eventually, the Treasury

hopes, about a dozen such facilities will be available to servicemen at bases throughout the country including the big Marine base at Da Nang.

One side effect of the plan could be to dry up some of the dollars which are finding their way into Viet Nam's black market. At least that's the hope of some government officials.

American servicemen do not now have U.S. banking facilities available to them in Viet Nam. The proposed facilities would be similar to those set up in countries such as France and Germany where many American troops are stationed.

Under the agreement with the Vietnamese government, no on-base facilities can be set up until the commercial facilities in Saigon have been in operation for 30 days. One commercial facility was scheduled to be opened this week.

There are no plans for automatic banking of servicemen's paychecks with interest as an inducement to the GIs to keep their money in the bank.

But officials said the possibility has been discussed of offering servicemen checking accounts with payment of interest on the balance they maintain with the bank. The Treasury plan also would eliminate any service charges to servicemen.

No interest rate has been fixed for such a plan but one feature might be that the checks a serviceman wrote could be cashed only in the United States. This would enable a serviceman to send money home without the possibility of it falling into the Viet Nam black market.

At present, servicemen can buy money orders which list only an amount but no name. These can be resold at a high price for Viet Nam money on the black market and then exchanged by the black marketeer for dollars.

Visitors to Jordan in 1965 totaled 501,346, an increase of 29 per cent over 1964.

Mrs. Harold Albert and Sharon of Columbus spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Minor. Mrs. Minor is recovering from recent surgery. With her mother this week is another daughter, Mrs. Russell Kempton and son, Johnny, of Newark.

Dr. Clyde Reed of Harbor Hills has been returned to his home from Riverside Hospital where he was receiving medical attention for a heart condition. His wife, Lillian (Dresbach Reed) reports he is sitting up, and his condition is improving.

James Mowery arrived from Florida during the weekend for a visit with his mother, Mrs. F. B. Mowery. He had spent several months in Florida after giving up his practice in New York. He is seeking a new location because of his health.

Members of Kingston Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, who attended inspection at Adelphi OES Friday night were deputy grand matron Mrs. Frank Graves, Mr. Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dearth, Mrs. W. S. Rhoades, Mrs. Herbert Lemley and Mrs. W. R. Sunderland.

Mr. and Mrs. James Miller and son, Bob, spent Saturday and Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Charles Miller. Jim is making some repairs on the home for his mother.

The auction, rummage and bake sale held Saturday at the Methodist Church was well attended, in spite of inclement weather. More than $1,000 was cleared. Those in charge express thanks to everyone who helped to make the event possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Courtright and son, Gary, sold their home near Meade to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kneese of Kingston. The Courtright's have moved into the Carson Dresbach home on the County Line.

Mrs. Ethel Andrews who has been with her daughter, Mrs. George Gooding and family in Columbus, arrived Sunday to spend several months with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rhoades.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol (Sonny) Riegel and daughters Janie and Nancy of Upper Arlington spent Saturday with his cousin, Mrs. Charles Search and family, and called on other relatives.

The next meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will be held in the Social Room of the church with a carry-in dinner. There will be installation of new officers, and a special program will be given by Miss Sharon Sharrett who will tell about her six months stay in India and show slides of her visit. The public is invited.

Mr. Wilbur Thornton is spending a few days with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Mettler and family.

Mrs. Willard Yapple plans to spend a few days with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Yapple, Columbus.

The 5th and 6th grade pupils of Zane Trace School visited the Wildlife Reservation at Pleasant Valley Tuesday. On Monday, the morning Kindergarten Class will visit the Chillicothe Fire Department and Bakery. They will have a picnic in the park and an ice cream treat provided by the Mothers' Club.

The afternoon Kindergarten Class will have an identical trip on May 11.

On May 10, the Kingston Elementary - Zane Trace Junior High PTO will meet at 8 p. m. One feature will be the Home Economic Style Show under the direction of Mrs. Clifton.

At 7:30 p. m. on May 13 the Spring Concert of the Kingston Elementary School will be held in the Junior High Auditorium, with both vocal and instrumental numbers by grades 1 through 6.

On May 25 the sixth grade will go to Logan Elm Park. The fourth grade will visit Adena on May 26.

Spanish Editors Cautious About Freedom of Press

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A month after Spain's new press law became effective, newspaper editors and officials who administer the law are still sparingly.

"We are feeling each other out," said a leading newspaper director. "The law is good, but neither we who publish newspapers nor the Ministry of Information officials who enforce it are quite certain how far we can exploit the freedom it provides without some wrist slapping."

The law, brainchild of the 43-year-old minister of information, Manuel Fraga Iribarne, ended many decades of press censorship. It provided both new freedoms and new responsibilities for those who write and edit newspapers and magazines.

Those who administer the law say that many newspapers, long accustomed to strict government controls, continue to work as though the new law had never been passed.

A day after the press bill became law, nationally circulated papers reported that a policeman shot and wounded two people during a demonstration of Basque Nationalists in northern Spain.

Two days later Spanish domestic news agencies reported a labor dispute in the industrial center of Bilbao. Major papers carried the stories.

"We are feeling our way into press freedom, but we are still working under wraps," one newspaper director told questioners. "We feel pretty safe in publishing any story a Spanish news agency carries, but when we go out on our own, especially in matters involving politics, we tend to think first and write later."

Nevertheless political articles and news reports involving Spain and its future are appearing with increasing frequency. None has directly criticized the Franco regime.

Among things reported in the press have been a financial scandal in Catalonia involving a former municipal mayor, economic strikes in various industries, direct criticism of Spain's four-year development plan, the recent wave of student disorders. Most if not all would have been banned by the official censor who disappeared with the new law.

One incident involved the semimonthly publication Joé, organ of the liberal-oriented young Catholic workers' group Juventud Obrera Católica. Under orders from the Archbishop of Madrid, its first April number was destroyed because it carried among other questionable articles one which could have reflected unfavorably on the Spanish army. The Ministry of Information — which enforces the press law — denied responsibility for the censorship.

The Roman Catholic hierarchy is a powerful force in control of the Spanish press, both before and since implementation of the press law.

Newspaper directors still repeat one complaint. Under the press law all foreign news must be funneled into Spain through a national agency — in this case the government-sponsored agency EFE.

2 U.S. Banks May Set Up Own Branches in Saigon

WASHINGTON (AP) — American servicemen in Viet Nam soon may have a hometown bank right in their backyard.

Two of the United States' largest banks — the Bank of America and Chase Manhattan — have been granted permission by the Vietnamese government to set up commercial facilities in Saigon.

Treasury Department officials said today present plans call for both banks to establish what are known as banking facilities — as distinguished from branches — at some military bases in the Saigon area as a convenience for American servicemen.

Eventually, the Treasury

hopes, about a dozen such facilities will be available to servicemen at bases throughout the country including the big Marine base at Da Nang.

One side effect of the plan could be to dry up some of the dollars which are finding their way into Viet Nam's black market. At least that's the hope of some government officials.

American servicemen do not now have U.S. banking facilities available to them in Viet Nam. The proposed facilities would be similar to those set up in countries such as France and Germany where many American troops are stationed.

Under the agreement with the Vietnamese government, no on-base facilities can be set up until the commercial facilities in Saigon have been in operation for 30 days. One commercial facility was scheduled to be opened this week.

There are no plans for automatic banking of servicemen's paychecks with interest as an inducement to the GIs to keep their money in the bank.

But officials said the possibility has been discussed of offering servicemen checking accounts with payment of interest on the balance they maintain with the bank. The Treasury plan also would eliminate any service charges to servicemen.

No interest rate has been fixed for such a plan but one feature might be that the checks a serviceman wrote could be cashed only in the United States. This would enable a serviceman to send money home without the possibility of it falling into the Viet Nam black market.

At present, servicemen can buy money orders which list only an amount but no name. These can be resold at a high price for Viet Nam money on the black market, and then exchanged by the black marketeer for dollars.

Visitors to Jordan in 1965 totaled 501,346, an increase of 29 per cent over 1964.
